PUZZLING THE LAW MAKERS

CHARGE ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP WELLESLEY GIRL

Mystery in Case of Alleged Effort by Father to Remove Miss Dorothy From Residence Where She Lived in Charge of Governess---Man Arrested After a Hard Struggle.

By the arraignment of a stylishly dressed man who gave the name of Robert H. Straine of Boston and a young woman who said she was Mary Smith, in the Dedham Court to-day, on the charge of disturbing the peace, an alleged sensational attempt to kidnap Miss Dorothy Straine, who yesterday graduated from the fashionable Dana Hall girls' preparatory school at Wellesley, was disclosed.

Miss Straine, whose nerves were so severely shattered that she was unable to appear in court today, is living with a governess at the home of Mrs. Hurd on Washington street, Wellesley, where the man she says is her father was arrested at midnight.

Straine, according to the story of witnesses, was caught by two men in his daughter's room struggling with her and the governess. The terrified screams of the women attracted the attention of neighbors, who rushed to their assistance.

An automobile run by a colored chauffeur was found in front of the house. The woman, who said she was Mary Smith, was on the stairs of the Hurd residence when the neighbors rushed in.

Straine, seized by William McLean and Jeremiah Cullinan, made a desperate effort to escape. The Smith woman had reached the automobile, and the man was trying to get there when Patrolman Armitage placed him under arrest.

According to the chief of the Wellesley police, Straine said he was living at the Hotel Lenox, Boston.

CASH BONDS FURNISHED.

There was no hearing to-day. Because of the absence of Miss Straine, who was not well enough to appear, a continuance was asked for until next Thursday. Cash bonds of $100 each were furnished by Straine for himself and the woman. They were charged only with disturbing the peace.

Miss Straine told one of the men that it was the third time that her father had attempted to kidnap her. Her mother is dead and she has been living with a guardian. She is eighteen years old and yesterday graduated from the exclusive Dana Hall school.

Her schoolmates say that the young woman is supposed to be very wealthy.

No statement was made by Mr. Straine in court today. He was represented by Associate Justice Harrison Dyspeau.

"I have nothing whatever to say about the case," Mr. Dyspeau said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter. "I do not even know Mr. Straine's residence in Boston. I do not know what his full name is."

"We Heard Shrieks."

This is the story told to the BOSTON AMERICAN by Jeremiah Cullinan, who lives with William McLean at No. 582 Washington street, Wellesley, just across the street from the Hurd house:

"Mr. McLean and I came out on the 11.30 train from Boston and we were just about getting ready for bed when we heard awful shrieks coming from Mrs. Hurd's house across the way. We ran over there and upstairs on the second floor we found this man holding the girl on the floor. He was also holding down the woman that they told us was the governess on the other side.

The governess' hair was streaming over her face and she was struggling. The girl, who had on her nightgown, was screaming.

"Straine had a rope in his hands, and it seemed to us as though he was trying to tie his daughter's hands. He had a black cloth bag beside him, and we thought this was to put over the girl's head.

"The woman who came with him we saw on the stairs. She rushed down and got into the automobile.

"McLean and I grabbed Straine and took him down stairs. He fought all the way and tried to reach the auto, which was waiting for him. Patrolman Armitage arrived just in time to secure him.

SAID IT WAS THIRD ATTEMPT.

While the officer took the two of them to the station we remained with the women who were terribly frightened. Miss Straine told me that the man was her father, and that it was the third time that he had tried to kidnap her. She had chloroform with him.

They were almost hysterical for a while, but quieted down before we left them.

Great mystery surrounds the case. Straine refused to tell the police anything about himself after he and the woman were locked up. The woman said that she came from Worcester. She is about thirty-five years of age and good looking.

The police found that the couple arrived in Wellesley just before midnight and apparently examined the house closely. After securing admittance to the house, the father went direct to his daughter's room.

The girl said that she was suddenly awakened to find her father in her room.

One version given to the police is that Miss Straine's hands were bound and a cloth was thrown over her head, but that she managed to free herself. At the same time a cloth was thrown over the head of the French governess who came to the girl's assistance.

Two men are said to have accompanied the couple to Wellesley. After the arrest the auto drove rapidly away, and it had other occupants beside the chauffeur when it sped toward Boston.

Call Counsel in Secret Merger Session;

COLE LASHES COMMITTEE

Seeks to Force Report on His Measure in Mellen's Giant Grab.

The legislative Committee on Railroads is in session to-day behind closed doors at the State house, continuing its examination of the six anti-merger bills which are aimed to control or to prevent the absorption of the Boston & Maine Railroad by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

Louis Brandeis, the author of the bill which is to be the storm centre of the discussion, as it is from the attorney representing the minority interests in the proposed merger; Colonel J. Brewer, chief counsel for the New Haven, and William H. Coolidge, of counsel for the merging railroad, were each before the committee for fifteen minutes.

Prepare Report To-day.

Members of the committee said that report to the Legislature would probably be prepared to-day. It may not be made public, for such a report would have to be printed. In all probability, it was thought, there would be majority and minority reports.

It is said by some that Governor Guild and Attorney General Malone are on one side of the fence, shouting for the committee to adopt the Malone bill as its report, while on the other side is Speaker Cole, backed by Senator Lodge, shouting for Cole's bill.

Brandeis Bill Paraphrased.

While the expected bill will be the Brandeis bill—or at least a paraphrase of that instrument—it will not be called the Brandeis bill. No such concession is expected or insisted upon by those who demand effective action. It will probably be called the "Cole bill, which will please Speaker Cole and will not offend Mr. Brandeis or those who stand with him.

The expected bill will be the apparent paraphrasing of the Brandeis bill sent to the Railroad Committee by Mr. Cole on Tuesday, amended to meet some of the criticisms made later in the day by Attorney Brandeis, such as, for instance, providing a penalty, and making it plain that the merger forbidden by the bill this side of July or next year shall not be inferentially authorized on and after that date.

It is said at the State House to-day that Speaker Cole and Senator Lodge have undoubtedly had a conference on the merger question. Both men were inaccessible at times yesterday. It was known early in the day that the Speaker wanted to reach the Senator.

Whip Used on Members.

It was also evident that Cole was sparing no effort to bring the Railroad Committee to his way of thinking. Ten of the fourteen committeemen were John Cole's selections for the committee, which naturally gives him some influence in the committee. Observers said that the committeemen were being steered to an interview with the House overseer by such friends of his as Representative Bill Turtle of Pittsfield and former Representative Henry W. Seward of Watertown, a smooth, good looking young man who has spent as much time in the State House corridors this session as if he were still a member or a lobbyist or something.

It was said by men who pretend to know what is going on that when the committeemen got well into Speaker Cole's State House sanctum the lines of the Andover Press inked to them something like this:

"Now, Blank, I want you to vote for my merger bill in committee. I don't care what happens to it on the floor, in the House or the Senate, but I want you to vote for it. All I ask of you is to see that the Railroad Committee reports my bill. Will you vote for it?"

When the Railroad Committee got around to resuming its labors to-day it became known that the Committee was going to keep its promises and listen to what the attorneys might have to offer in the way of suggestion. Those included Colonel Benton for the New Haven, whom Senator Linehan described in the Senate a while back as "absolutely the slickest thing this side of New York."

Storm Centre About Brandeis's Bill; May Reach Important Decision To-day.

ADAMS BALKS STATE IN HAYWOOD TRIAL

FAILS TO SECURE DIRECT CORROBORATION OF ORCHARD'S STORY.

BOISE, Idaho, June 20.—That the testimony of the witnesses for the State has failed to corroborate the alleged "confession" of Harry Orchard incriminating Haywood in his diabolical death plots was to-day triumphantly pointed out by counsel for the defence.

They declare that the sworn statements of the chief witnesses of the prosecution's case have yet to connect Haywood with the crimes revealed by Orchard.

It is now generally understood that the State has abandoned any idea it had to put Steve Adams on the witness stand, and this means that the confession of a co-conspirator, which was required by statute to convict, will be lacking when the case goes to the jury.

To-day the fight is resumed to contradict the evidence introduced yesterday that the Miners' Magazine was used to incite to crimes of violence.

Chief Attorney Richardson, for the defence, will show that the articles in the magazine were not written by any of the Federation officials, and that no incendiary articles of any kind were ever penned by Haywood or his associates.

Judge a Witness.

Part of the session was entirely consumed by arguments on the admissability as competent evidence of the files of the Miners' Magazine, the official publication of the Western Federation of Miners. Senator Borah urged the admission of these papers, insisting that the utterances of Ed Boyce, Editor O'Neill, Haywood and others were positive proof of the hatred and will of the miners' organization as a body and that which Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone, the leaders of the federation, felt toward Steunenberg, Governor Peabody, Adjutant General Sherman Bell, Justices Goddard and Gabbert, Fred W. Bradley and others, who have been enumerated by Orchard.

The Colorado justice testified as follows:

"On the 13th of February, 1906, I observed a steel screw eye fastened in the bottom of my gate. The next day, about 11 o'clock, I met Buckley Wells in my house and he proceeded to uncover a box which was planted in the ground close to the gate post. The box was about eight inches deep, eight inches wide and five inches deep. It was wrapped in burlap.

"On opening the box we found a little vial with a rubber cork, which was partially withdrawn. The bottle contained a brown sediment. Near the cork was a piece of wire, one end of which was apparently eaten off. After the bomb was recovered we procured a valise and took it to McFarland's office, where its several parts were sealed up and we all wrote our names on the packages and envelopes. Later, the dynamite in the box was taken outside the city of Denver and exploded."

Senator Borah began the day's proceedings by offering and specifically naming the articles in the various numbers of the Miners' Magazine, which is offered as evidence. The defence stated that they would present specific objections to each.

Married Man Beaten by Angry Father

HORSEWHIPPED FOR GIRL

Attack on Baggage Master Startles Passengers in East Braintree Station.

In the presence of more than a hundred men and women waiting at the East Braintree railway station at 8 a. m. to-day for a train to Boston, Charles South, baggagemaster at the East Braintree station, was soundly thrashed with a rawhide whip by an irate father, who chased him for half a mile, wielding the whip at every chance and followed by the crowd from the station.

Robert J. McMeekin, a dentist with offices at No. 120 Tremont street, Boston, and a captain and inspector of the practice in the Fifth Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, was the man behind the whip, and although of shorter stature than the young baggage-smasher he managed to keep up with him in the chase and punish the latter severely.

"That'll teach you to keep your attentions from my little girl," shouted the dentist every time the whip descended, and that seemed to cut even deeper than the lash. South, who is only twenty years of age, is married and has three children at Weymouth.

Approached on Platform.

The train for Boston was just about due when Dr. McMeekin approached South on the platform. The young man evidently suspected nothing until the dentist pulled from his sleeve the long snake.

"I gave him a good sound thrashing, and I will give him another if he does not cease paying attentions to my daughter," said Dr. McMeekin to-day in his offices at No. 120 Tremont street, Boston.

Dr. McMeekin is a man of short stature, not more than five feet, three or four inches in height, but of a very stocky build, and is about forty years of age. He is a Scotchman.

"If there is not any law that will protect my daughters, I am going to make one of my own," told this man, and I say it now, that if I catch or know of his following my girl's train, or even speaking to her, I will shoot him down.

"Why, just think of it, my daughter is only thirteen years old. He is a man with a wife and three children.

"Last evening my daughter went to take a music lesson, and was coming home at about 9 o'clock when this man approached her and began to talk to her. A thirteen-year-old girl does not know what to do when she is approached in such a manner. A lady at my house, Mrs. Lillian Smith, had walked down the street to meet Eleanor, and when the little girl saw her she ran to her, and this man sneaked away.

"When I arrived home the family told me about it and I went hunting for this man last night, but was unable to find him, although I searched until after 12 o'clock.

Took Cowhide to Station.

"This morning I took a pleated cowhide whip which I have and putting it under my coat went down to the station in search of the man. I found him sweeping up the floor in the waiting room and as approaching him asked him if his name was South. He said 'Yes' and I said, 'I want to see you outside.'

"He followed me out onto the platform and drawing the cowhide I began to beat him. I beat him as long as I could. His legs were longer than mine and he could run faster or I would be beating him now. I don't know how many times I hit him. I hope that he will have me arrested. I will pay the fine and I will hammer him till to pieces the next time that he ever dares to look at or speak to my daughters."

Spectators of the whipping said to-day that South sprinted down the track as fast as his legs could carry him. Seventy-five employees of the Braintree Shoe Stiffing Factory joined in the chase, together with waiting commuters, and the procession strung out for a mile.

"If you ever talk to my daughter again," shouted the dentist, "I'll shoot you on sight," and that lent speed to the frightened baggageman's feet, for he knew that his pursuer was Inspector of rifle practice in the Fifth Regiment and a dead shot.

Chase Lasts Five Minutes.

The pursuit lasted for about five minutes, when South finally sprinted out of reach and the dentist returned to the station, panting, but triumphant.

Then he took the train to Boston, South returned to the station crestfallen after the train had left, and spent the rest of the morning within the shelter of the baggage room.

Eleanor McMeekin, the thirteen-year-old daughter of the dentist, who was the innocent cause of the startling scene at the station, did not leave her home to-day, but remained under her mother's protection.

"This man South," said Mrs. McMeekin to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day, "has been annoying my little girl for several months.

"South has annoyed me for several months," said Eleanor to-day. "He began by tapping on the window of the station when I appeared there, and after a time began to speak with me and walk with me. I told my father."

Mr. South, when seen at the East Braintree station, said:

"I have done nothing wrong. The attack upon me was entirely unexpected and unsolited for. I am innocent of any wrong doing."

Doughty Dentist Says He Will Pay a Fine and Do It Again if Necessary.

EZRA SUTTON, FAMOUS BALL PLAYER, IS DEAD

HE WAS A MEMBER OF THE BOSTON NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAM FOR MANY YEARS.

A famous ballplayer in his day, Ezra Sutton, died this morning at a private hospital in Braintree, where he was undergoing treatment.

"Sut," as he was known by old followers of the game, was for many years connected with the Boston baseball team. He joined the team in 1877, and remained here till 1888, when he was released to Rochester, and later went to Milwaukee.

When the Boston team won the championship back in 1877, 1878 and 1883, Sutton was a member of the pennant winners, playing third base and shortstop. He is called as a base runner, batter and was a great man at catching difficult fouls.

It is shortly after 1890 that Sutton was attacked by locomotor ataxia and was confined to a hospital and has been an invalid ever since. He was born in Somerset, N. S., September 17, 1850. He was married in 1880 and was the father of three children, two of whom are dead.

HEAT DEATH TO-DAY.

Johnson, Charles, colored, aged forty-two, of No. 1 Medford court, South End; found dead in his room at 11 a. m. Natural causes superinduced by heat.

PROSTRATION TO-DAY.

Wheeler, John H., aged thirty-two, of No. 1135 West Canton street, South End, overcome on car at Columbus and Massachusetts avenues; taken to City Hospital.

With one dead and one prostration, the first of the present record weather, the thermometer began to decline at 8 o'clock to-day and a cooling breeze swept in from the ocean. The humidity, which at 8 o'clock was 72 degrees, is 22 above the normal which is 70. On this account the great drop in temperature from last night was not felt as much as it would had the moisture in the air been normal.

Showers are predicted for Boston to-day and to-night.

The effects of the sudden, almost tropical, hot spell are still felt here, and one death and the result of heat prostration was recorded early to-day, as well as one prostration.

William C. Cummings, seventy-five years old, of No. 19 Englewood street, Dorchester, was stricken while at work in the shop of the J. T. Stearns Company, Neponset, and died before medical assistance could be summoned.

Cummings, who was a bench worker, had suffered considerably from the extreme heat of the past two days. This morning, when leaving for work he complained of the heat, and he had been working but a few minutes when he fell to the floor. Dr. James Mullen, who lives close to the plant, failure, superintended by the heat.

The body was removed to the rooms of Undertaker Gleason, and Medical Examiner McDonald was notified.

While the average temperature to-day is 10 degrees, the humidity is 12 degrees, 22 degrees above the normal. The condition is extraordinary and Greaves continued suffering and discomfort.

The death and six prostrations from heat were reported yesterday, with a maximum temperature of 91 during the day.

Despite the reduced mercury, yesterday proved a trying day for the thousands of women and children living in the city proper. There was a general exodus to the beach resorts and to the many public parks in the city and suburbs. Franklin Common and Public Garden were thronged with a perspiring group of whom sought relief beneath the shade trees, while others sinned themselves by a trip on the swan boats.

John Govan, sixty years old, of No. 161 Charles street, was found dead in his room yesterday from heat.

The following prostrations were reported:

WILLIAM ESLER, No. 283 C street.
JOHN W. DILLON, No. 4805 Washington street. Stricken at Boylston street city yard.
MICHAEL GAVIN, fifty, Tileston street.
JARVIS W. STANLEY, fifty-six, of Lynn.
MICHAEL LOWDEN, fifty, of Middlesex paving yard.
THOMAS MARTHUR of 1281 Washington street, Boston.

PARTY IS SPLIT ON ANTI-MERGER BILL

side of New York," Mr. Coolidge for the Boston & Maine and Mr. Brandeis for the General Lawrence minority interests in the latter road.

Asks Only for Results.

It was said that Mr. Brandeis, agreeing with Mr. Shakespeare that a rose by any name would smell as sweet, would not insist that the bill carry his name in the Legislature. If the necessary touches can be made here and there, Mr. Brandeis would as soon have his bill called the Cole bill, or the Jones bill, or the ice bill, as the Brandeis bill. What Brandeis isn't in but results, it was said. All he wants is results.

The real anti-mergerites in the Legislature, one of them said to-day, will insist that one of two things be done quickly: That a bill be passed preventing for all time the consolidation of the New England railroads under existing conditions, or (2) that what Mr. Meilen has admitted was going on be held up long enough to await careful study, with no intimation or interference that it is to be sanctioned at some later date.

"Mr. Meilen's railroad," said one of the anti-mergerites, "has a Massachusetts charter. Mr. Meilen's railroad has admitted that if it has not broken Massachusetts laws it has certainly found a way of evading them. We held that it would be pusillanimous for this old Commonwealth, having landed Mr. Meilen's road with the goods on, to let it get away with this.

"And for this talk about 'drastic' measures, and so on, it makes some of us tired. If you catch a man with his hand in your pocket, is it 'drastic' if you compel him to hand back your pocketbook?"

Malone and Committee Split.

Attorney-General Dana Malone has had an open split with the Committee on Railroads. Mr. Malone has let the committee know right off the bat that he will answer no more questions from them unless the questions are put down in writing. The committee pretends not to care. The split arose from the fact that some of the committeemen understood Malone to have said on one occasion that in his opinion the original Brandeis bill is constitutional. In a second appearance Mr. Malone said plainly that in his opinion the bill is unconstitutional. There was immediately a session of words, the upshot being Mr. Malone's dictum that hereafter everything will have to be in black and white.

The Legislature will undoubtedly clear the decks of everything else to-day and to-morrow, in order that the merger matter may next week have a clear track.

MORAN FREES 49 HELD UNDER OLD BLUE LAW

SUMMONS THEM TO HIS OFFICE, PASSES ON EVIDENCE AND QUICKLY DROPS CASES.

District Attorney Moran to-day turned free forty-nine men who had been arrested for violations of the Sunday law and who had appealed their cases from the Municipal courts.

This practically undoes all the work of Commissioner O'Meara during his strenuous efforts to enforce to the letter the Blue Laws when arrests followed the selling of flowers, the delivering of ice cream, transportation of theatrical baggage and all kinds of what the commissioner was pleased to interpret as "unnecessary labor."

The District Attorney had notified the defendants and the men who had arrested them to appear before him to-day in his office. He took up the case in groups, listened to the evidence on both sides and then wrote across the papers "nolle prosse" and released the ball which the defendants had furnished.

POPE CONFIRMS BISHOP FEEHAN

ROME, June 20.—At the Vatican to-day the report that the Rev. Daniel F. Feehan of St. Bernard's Church, Fitchburg, Mass., has been appointed bishop of the Fall River diocese, to succeed the late Bishop Stang, was confirmed. The formal announcement of the appointment through the apostolic delegate at Washington will go forward according to the usual routine in such matters.

MAN BURIED BY CAVE-IN.

Angelo Masse, a laborer, thirty-eight years of age and living at No. 605 Harrison avenue, while working in a trench opposite No. 154 Summer street, East Boston, was severely injured by a cave-in to-day, which buried him in the dirt. He was extricated with considerable difficulty and rushed to the Relief Station.

CLEVELAND PAST DEATH CRISIS

PRINCETON, N. J., June 20.—Close to death for two days as the result of a malignant internal growth, Grover Cleveland is to-day thought to have safely passed the danger point of his illness. Physicians declare he will soon be on the road to speedy recovery.

Mr. Cleveland was stricken just after the beginning of commencement at Princeton University. The attack was diagnosed as stomach or intestinal trouble.

MAHER'S SISTER WEDS.

HARTFORD, Ct., June 20.—Miss Sadie Pauline Maher, sister of Danny Maher, the jockey, and Louis Kilby, manager of Poli's Theatre, were married here. Danny Maher, who is now riding in England, cabled his best wishes to the bride and bridegroom.

Blanche Guptil, 3 Years Old, Saved By Brave Mother

CHILD KILLED BY HACK.

HOLYOKE, June 20.—While playing in the street, Gabrielle Le Brun, six years old, was run over and killed by a hack driven by Arthur Gosnier last night.

MOTHER SAVES LIFE OF BABY FROM FLAMES

Plunges Little Girl Whose Dress Was Burning Into Tub of Water.

CHILD WILL RECOVER

Baby Blanche Guptil, three years of age, is in the Relief Hospital to-day suffering from burns which she received yesterday when her clothing took fire, while her mother is nursing painful burns on her hands and arms which she received while saving her little one's life. The doctors in the Relief Station say that the child will recover unless unexpected complications set in.

Baby Guptil was playing around the kitchen, while her mother was hard at work. Suddenly the woman heard a shrill cry. She was horrified to see her child's clothing in flames. Rushing to the little one, she seized her and with almost the same movement carried her to a tub of water and plunged the child far into its depths, extinguishing the flames, despite the fact that her own hands and arms were being cruelly burned.

Then the woman called for help from the neighbors, and the baby was borne away to the Relief Station, while physicians dressed the mother's injuries.

CAST BOMB AT ATHENS SALONS

ATHENS, June 20.—The members of the Chamber of Deputies are to-day still suffering from the shock caused last night, when an unknown man threw a bomb from the gallery while the Chamber was in session. Only the fact that the lighted fuse fell off during the flight of the bomb prevented its explosion.

TWO DEAD IN LISBON RIOT.

LISBON, June 20.—Two persons were killed, several injured, and seventeen arrested in a demonstration to-day over the return of the Portuguese Premier.

BIG WHISKEY HOUSE ON FIRE

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 20.—A dangerous fire was in progress in the wholesale whiskey district at 12 o'clock to-day. It started with an explosion in the whiskey house of A. & J. Fretborg and threatened to extend to other buildings. A general alarm has been turned in.

MEIKLE BOY TO GET DIPLOMA

Edgar Weston Meikle, the Lynn boy recently acquitted of the charge of killing his father, will receive his diploma at the Lewis Street Grammar School, Lynn, next Thursday, the same as the other members of the graduating class, though he has only attended the sessions of the school for about four weeks.

The honor is made possible for the boy through Miss Anna G. Hunt, the principal, who believed unswervingly in the lad's innocence, and labored him regularly during the eight months he was confined in the Salem Jail. He will enter the high school in the Fall.

INJURED GIRL IS MADE HAPPY BY KIND MAYOR

SPEECH ALL FOR HERSELF

Mary Croston, of No. 119 Harvard street, Cambridge, is to-day the happiest girl in Middlesex county, for she has received her High School diploma from the hands of Mayor Wardwell himself. Little Mary was not able to attend the commencement exercises of her class in Cambridge on account of terrible burns she received a short time ago, when a kerosene lamp exploded in her home.

She bore her injuries cheerfully and bravely enough, but the thought that she would not be able to attend the commencement exercises of the Roberts School and receive her diploma along with the others of her class worried her greatly.

During the graduation exercises Principal McVicker mentioned little Mary, how she had been burned and presented from being present to be graduated with her class, and how above all she had wanted Mayor Wardwell to hand her her diploma.

"Easily Remedied," Says Mayor.

When the Mayor heard this he said: "Why that's easily remedied. Since Mary can't be here, I'll take her diploma to her," and he did.

Along with Principal McVicker, Mayor Wardwell of Cambridge went to the home in Harvard street and there he delighted the little sufferer as she lay propped up in bed by handing her the diploma and at the same time he made her a nice little speech, which she now treasures as her very own, for at the commencement exercises the speech he made was to the whole class.

Mary was delighted, though she was so embarrassed and overcome that she had little to say while the Mayor and principal were in her home.

Visited by Whole Class.

Since Mary was burned her teachers and the principal have called several times to see her and cheer her up.

One afternoon the whole class marched from the Roberts school, which is but a short distance from Mary's home, and paid her a visit in a body.

BOLT FIRES CHAPEL AND A DANCE HALL

BIDDEFORD, Me., June 20.—What was apparently the same bolt of lightning struck a chapel and a dance hall at the same time at Fortune's Rocks, a seaside summer resort. Both were destroyed, entailing a $5,000 loss.

'NATION'S RICHES BELONG TO THE PEOPLE'-GROSSCUP

Nearly Three Billion on Deposit Now at Call of Small Borrowing Class He Tells Brown Students.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 20.—Addressing the graduates of Brown University at the commencement exercises yesterday, Justice Peter S. Grosscup of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago declared that the wealth of the country was owned by the American people at large and not by the rich men. He said that competition could be effectively restored when the capital of the country was at the call of those who would encourage competition. Judge Grosscup spoke on "The Everyday Man and Our Corporation Problem." He said in part:

By Judge Peter S. Grosscup.

Incorporated enterprise is the best method yet discovered or wielding, for its larger purposes, the industrial energy of this age of Americans; it is because of this that the corporation is here at all, and it is because of this also that the corporation is here to stay.

It is through this state-created intermediary—the corporation—that the American instinct for saving something and individually owning something is chiefly driven to work itself out. It is in this individual instinct to save something and to individually own something that the whole cause of government and social order has hitherto found its surest guaranty.

The American people have on deposit in banks and banking institutions nearly $13,000,000,000, a sum of money unemployed for investment directly by themselves, but employed by a comparatively small borrowing class. This huge deposit nearly equals at their present market price the value of all the railroads of the country put together—it constitutes almost the entire wealth on which the corporate business of the country actually rests.

It is not the rich men of the country who own this wealth. Indeed, were all the banks and savings societies to liquidate at once, there would immediately turn up in direct possession and ownership of the people at large as large a part of the corporate securities that the American people could be said to be in fact the owners of the property of America.

How ought sane men to meet these conditions? Should the corporation, for the mere sake of election tactics, be hawked at from every possible angle of human disappointment? Should these so-called leaders be followed, who think that what it took the human race all its life to build up can be taken down in a day and without a jar; that human nature is at last released from the sentence "In the sweat of thy brow shalt thou earn thy bread?"

Has competition been suppressed? If so, it will only be effectually restored when the capital of the country is at the call, not only of those who would suppress competition, but of those who would encourage it. We should transform the corporation from a position of inviting distrust to a position that invites the people's trust.

Has Mighty Mission to Perform.

In the evolution of events the corporation has become sole trustee over nearly the whole field that ought to invite the individual endeavor, the individual hope. And this alone ought to invite us out of the delusion that the character and career of a State-made corporation is of no more public concern than the character and career of an individual.

The corporation is a mighty agency of and for the people whose character and career are of the deepest public concern.

The great work of this generation is to raise it up to the stature of the mission it has to perform; to make it for the future a trustworthy agency commanding the confidence of the future. That, and that alone, is the sane way of meeting the conditions that confront us.

JEWS TO HELP OLD HOME WEEK

The Federation of Jewish Societies of Massachusetts, representing 100 different Hebrew societies in Boston and thirty others in the State, met Tuesday evening to consider Old Home Week plans. A committee consisting of Max Mitchell, I. Brooks, Louis Gordon, Jacob Wasserman, A. Albert and Nathan Sodeckson was appointed to confer with the secretary of the Old Home Week Committee. The plans of the Federation include keeping open house at the headquarters of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, a banquet to visiting members on some evening and registration and assignment of room and boarding places.

START WORK ON N. Y. RECOUNT

NEW YORK, June 20.—Clarence J. Shearn, personal attorney for William Randolph Hearst, is busy over the necessary court papers for moving a recount under the new statute. They will be presented to Special Term Justices in both Kings and New York Counties in a few days. The application will ask for a recounting of all the votes cast in the disputed election in both counties.

The quo warranto proceedings begun by Attorney-General Jackson will be continued as if the recount bill had not passed.

HARBOR GIVES UP MAN'S BODY

The badly decomposed body of an unknown man was found by the harbor police to-day off the National docks, East Boston. Appearances indicated that the body had been in the water since Winter. It was dressed in a black sack suit, with heavy overcoat, homespun stockings, black laced shoes and new aretics.

The man was about forty-five years of age, 5 feet 11 inches in height and weighed about 180 pounds. There were no identifying marks about the clothing. Undertaker Jones removed the body to the North Grove street morgue.

Another Great Hill-Climbing Victory

Scored by the

WHITE STEAMER

In the annual hill-climbing contest of the Cleveland Automobile Club, held June 15th, a stripped 30 horse-power Model "G" White Steamer made the fastest time, 47 2-5 seconds, defeating by a comfortable margin a field of more than 40 gasoline cars (2, 4 and 6-cylinder), including the winner of the 1905 Vanderbilt Race. Our car made the climb at a rate slightly better than 50 miles an hour.

We won the two most important events of the day—the free-for-all and the Class A (cars weighing from 1,432 to 2,204 lbs.)—and in each event had seconds to spare. Thus did our cars duplicate the triumph scored at Wilkes-Barre on Decoration Day.

Weighs Heart and Emotion to Tell the Scientific Secret of Love

SAYS COLLEGE WOMEN LESS PRONE TO WED

Dr. G. Stanley Hall Explains Psychology of Sentiment, Its Results and Causes.

WHY ALL WORLD LOVES?

REITERATING his declaration that college women are less prone to enter wedlock than girls of lesser education, Dr. G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark University, Worcester, to-day tells the readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN some of the scientific secrets of the mystic power that sways the world to-day as in ages past.

Some years ago Dr. Hall wrote "Adolescence: Its Psychology," a book which won him fame. This treats of love from a scientific standpoint.

"Eyes, hair and teeth are the three first physical attributes which win a man," declares Dr. Hall," while woman cherishes the broad shoulders of her "Sparan Knight" and condemns his failings for this one characteristic. Girls and boys of the High schools show a strong tendency to become fascinated by the eyes, hair and even speech, all of which produce love sighs.

Collegians Are Slow to Wed.

While he does not count a controversy over his statement regarding the celibacy of a college women, Dr. Hall, in a statement to a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN, said:

"Some years ago Dr. Smith of Smith College and myself took a census of four girls' colleges and a similar number of others which, according to statistics, proved conclusively that the educated woman scorned marriage.

"I repeated this statement in Baltimore last night. Since then I have had numerous letters from college women protesting against my statement. I shall take no notice of these, for college records will bear me out in every word. The four girls' colleges canvassed by members of the work of the class secretary for several years, showed that but fifty per cent. of the college women entered matrimony. These colleges were Wellesley, Smith, Vassar and Bryn Mawr.

"Of the various characteristics in men and women, or girls and boys which bring about the state of love a former book on this subject by me points out the most prominent features.

By Dr. G. Stanley Hall.

"As to the typical development of sentiment or love in the individual we still know too little. Affection in some form of it is often seen between boys and girls under the age of eight years. It is then transparent, with no self-consciousness, and appears in fondness for each other's company, taking the shape of gifts and often embraces and kisses.

"Jealousy is often well developed and there is no mutual shyness or fear or reticence between little sweethearts, who sometimes assume that they will marry and even prattle of details of life together. In rare cases such attraction has culminated in lasting wedlock. From eight to ten, fourteen, boys and girls show another form of juvenile love. This seems to me seldom recognized in pantomime a love like that was old when history began.

Why Sweethearts Love.

"The order of points specified as most admired in the other sex by young men and women in their teens is as follows:

"Eyes, hair, stature and size, feet, brows, complexion, cheeks, form of head, throat, ears, chin, hands, neck, nose, nails and even fingers, and shape of face. In Drew's census of 3500 love poems of college students were eyes and hair also read, where kisses are often unreal, dreamed, fancied, charms of limbs, etc., overheard in song, pout, sigh, smile, and even chewing gum are also specially fascinating.

"Eight per cent of young men are sus-

LOVE! WHAT? WHEN? WHERE? HOW? DR. HALL ANSWERS

"EYES, hair and teeth, three physical attributes that win affection.

"Habits abhorred by sweethearts—snuffing, lisping, rolling of eyes, loud voice, pausing in talk, gesticulation, sarcastic smiles, hard laugh and swaggering.

"Qualities disliked—impertinence, flattery, affection, boldness, bashfulness, languor, criticism, overgallantry and frankness.

"Trivial often eclipse great qualities and one trait may be magnified beyond all bounds.

"Love is the practical culmination of self knowledge.

"Six definitions of love—emotive delusion, fixed idea, rudimentary paranoia, psychic neurasthenia, pyahic emotive obsession, and episodic symptoms of hereditary degeneracy.

"Modesty is at root mode, and woman is its priestess."

Love sensitizes the soul to the influences of nature and makes it a generic factor in the evolution of art, literature and science."

reptilelo to sloping shoulders; seven per cent of girls specify broad shoulders; per cent favor regular and six per cent prefer lovely long lashes; eleven per cent of young men; long, clean or pink finger nails are often specified; arched eyebrows among girls find a special susceptibility; four per cent of young youths, while cowlicks charm three per cent.

"Often the specification of taste performs the same great service as the color of the hair, shape of the hands or feet, for a nose slightly petrosed, a long neck, prominent eyes, dimples and even freckles have special enguging power.

In the Music of Her Voice.

"Passing to movements or acts, the voice has for the most preferences. Some eye offered for high, some a deep voice. The rising inflection, clearness, flexibility, a lisp, special intonations accents, or even dialects are often proposed. Mode of laughing comes next, while carriage, gait, gesture, movement or roll of the eye, pose of head and shoulders, mode of fanning, use of handkerchief, way of holding, way of sitting or sighing, may each have a special preeminence.

"In dress or toilet, hair leads and length, mode, or parting, dressing, curling, been crackers, etc., are detailed. Rings, bracelets, ribbons come next with the girls, and with the boys clothes that fit, especially those at the shoulders and waist. Canes, glasses, furs, clothes filled with gold, clean linen, white handkerchiefs, prominent styles in hats and green parasols, mode of wearing watch charms, style of collars, frills, or suits, neatness.

"Unsexually, dislikes, are no less pronounced. Prominent, deep set eyelids, fulness of neck, ears that stand out, brows that meet, broad or long feet, high cheek bones, light eyes, large nose, sandy or red hair and a score of other points. Observed have the following lead: snuffling, lisping, rolling of eyes, loud voice, pausing in talk, gesticulation, sarcastic smiles, hard or insolent laugh, stiffness in movement and swaggering, etc.

Love Flees These in Haste.

"In dress dislikes are: earrings worn by men, lost teeth, neglect of style, bangs, thumb rings, hat on side in men, short hair in women, baldness, ultra style, clothes that do not fit, nonories, flashy colors, untidy linen, handkerchief, cobwebs, furs, and rings for men, cheap and coarse dress, etc.

"Resemblances to animals play a great and surprising role in the adolescence among dislikes. Resemblances suggested by face, voice, motion or character, the orang, ape, monkey, dog, parrot, pig, bird, peacock, cat, hen, donkey, sheep, rabbit, fox, etc. Qualities disliked are as follows: impertinence, flattery, affection, bashfulness, complaint, bashfulness, languor, criticism, overgallantry, overmodesty and frankness. These are the alphabet or sociological material of which romantic love is largely composed, where trivial often eclipse great qualities and one trait may be magnified beyond all bounds.

"We often see love charms dissolated from any centres and become objects of independent attraction, and also how in desperate, sex feelings may be transferred to new objects with no change in the feelings themselves. If each individual, sex, mind or body, dress automatisms, conscious acts, intelligence, are the decorative series, we can see how a change in fashion, now in manners, now in morals, and now in religion, may each be only a change of fields, groups.

When Love Meets its Own.

"Normally these special preferences, no doubt often consciously, and still more unconsciously, assorted with liking for individuals, already well developed, are instinctively organized as parts of a large whole so that when one who embodies in his or her own person most of these fetishistic traits is met with, love may suddenly recognize and focus on them. Love is in this view the practical culmination of self knowledge which is aware of defects."

In six leading contemporary alienists I find the following definition of love as described in novels: emotive delusion, fixed idea, rudimentary paranoia, psychic neurasthenia, psychic emotive obsession, and episodic symptoms of hereditary degeneracy. In any case esthetic taste is consciously being cultivated over a wide range of topics.

"Female coyness and reluctance or refusal is so deep seated as to belie the little imputation that this sex made the first advances. The world owes to her the precious and primal motive of reserve. All through the animal series she leads. "If man loses his one and becomes overdocile, interpreting the woman's state of mind too subtly, flagging and languor in her costume, with oily voice and cadence, we have the germs of inversion.

"Modesty is at root, mode, and woman is its priestess.

"It is on these lines, written and unwritten, that slightly lower in rank, refines, but flees in a circle, or to excite pursuit; it resists, but so as to provoke conquest.

Noble Women Aid World.

"Healthful and sufficient society of noble women, communion with them at a young age rightly raises over to adoration, constructs nests of high and wholesome thoughts for old age.

"Love can include the whole body and soul. The fact that woman is a more generic being than man, closer to the race and less mutilated by specializations of by deformity of body or soul, makes it easy for man to see in his chosen Heign the entire sex. Every part of her body and mind is attractive. Marriage can has be ideal, infinite and impeccable without requiring any platonic suspension of elders. Each sex is conscious of its own goods points, but still more of those of the other. Life, which has here-tofore been partial, provisional and preparatory, now becomes complete in mutual spiritual appropriation and mastery.

"Defects are balanced and two bodies and two souls are a finished union for the development of the new resultant life which can now be inaugurated.

"Without children love is incomplete, if woman is not satisfied and grows unhealthy and unbeautiful. Care of the other sex as her right, it is because man is a failure. The fact that love sensitizes the soul to the influences of nature makes it a generic factor in the evolution of art, literature, material religion and to some extent science. Love is invested with the mistress's form, features and every act, but associates with her a large environment."

HUNDREDS JOIN THE SINN FEIN

That the Sinn Fein (ffer ourselves") propaganda is being eagerly sought by Irish-Americans is amply attested in the hundreds who have attached their names to the roll of membership of this new organization, which bids fair to act as an entering wedge for Home Rule for the people of Ireland.

In the cities and towns of Ireland this new idea is arresting the attention of the young men, many of whom are prominent in the temperance movement, who are spreading the new doctrine with a determination characteristic of the Celt.

One of the active principles of the order is that the young men of the cities and towns in Ireland are encouraged to encourage absentees to avoid paying the excise tax.

ENGLISH HEAP HONORS ON TWAIN

LONDON, June 20.—Mark Twain is receiving as much attention as would a European potentate. The newspapers are devoting columns to his doings and sayings and he has been inundated with invitations, many of which he has reluctantly been forced to decline, as he is determined not to tire himself out.

BURNED BABY HUGS DOLL ON HOSPITAL COT

Lying on a cot in the Carney Hospital, with the spark of life feebly flickering in her little body, three-year-old Mina Hain hugs closely to her burned form the big doll which seems to soothe her hurts, while the heroic mother, who, at the risk of her own life, saved her child from being burned to death, watches over her and prays that she may be saved to once more lighten the home with her childish prattle. The doctors fear that the little one will not live, but they hope she may save her life.

"Peease b'ing me my dolly," cried the baby just before lapsing into unconsciousness. Then the wax figure was placed in her arms and she hugged it close to her as she fell asleep.

While playing with matches with Silva Tarranaugh, a small boy living in the tenement next to her at No. 3500 East Fourth street, in the yard in the rear of the house, Mina Hain's dress caught fire. As the frail material was being devoured and the fire began to eat into the flesh of the girl she began to scream for her mother.

At the sight of the baby girl wrapped in flames, Mrs. Hain bounded for the rear stairway and down she went with the little one in her arms beating out the fire.

Patrolman Dennis Collins of Station 6, who was on post in the vicinity, was first on extinguishing the rest of the fire and hastened to the Hain's home. The mother was completely devoured by the flames.

Dr. Bowles ordered the little one hurried to the hospital. The fire scorched the entire left side of the baby girl.

DEFEAT HIGGINS IN PRESSMEN'S ELECTION

NEW YORK, June 20.—The International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America have elected officers, headed by George L. Berry of San Francisco as president. Here's a millionaire who would let nothing stand in the way of marrying the girl of his choice at the time set. His hurry-up parson is of sixteen minutes and how the ceremony was performed. In the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

MARIE VENNELL WAS MURDERED, POLICE INSIST

YOUTH STILL UNDER GUARD

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Pretty Marie Vennell was brutally beaten before she was drowned in Sunset Lake, Bridgeton, N. J., according to a statement by the police to-day.

Bruises and cuts on her face lead the authorities to believe that the hapless victim in this modern Grace Brown-Chester Gillette mystery was probably beaten until she was unconscious before she was cast off to drown.

Mrs. Jane Eckert, mother of the girl, who sat up all night identifying the body, declared to-day that her daughter had been murdered.

"I knew my poor May was murdered," she cried. "I am certain she died in defending her honor."

Couple Go Boating.

There appear to be several discrepancies in Evans's story of the girl's death. He says that he met the girl on the road yesterday and invited her to go boating. She asked me to let her row and we changed places," said Evans. "When she tired we wanted to change seats again. Both got in the stern of the boat then and it swamped the boat down. The water rushed in and filled the boat and in our excitement we were both thrown out.

"I grabbed her and tried to help her up. We went down and came up twice. She clung desperately to me, and as we were going down the third time I realized that I could not save her, and I fought for my own life. I tore myself from her and swam to Pinesy Point. From there I walked home, and I was here when the policeman came in and asked me to go back with him and show where the girl was drowned."

Evans went home without reporting the girl's death to anyone.

Prove Statement False.

"There are some very queer sides to Evans's story," declared Constable Aaron Smith to-day. "His statement that the boat filled from the stern is false, for two men tried to submerge the boat that way to-day and failed.

The selection of a site for this building has been delayed for a long time and it is not believed it will be put off much longer.

Keeps Linen Looking New

Every woman admires the fresh, snowy appearance of new linen, but unless special care is taken with starching, each time the fabric is washed, the beauty soon fades. The one sure way to keep your linen looking new and make it last longer is to use

DURYEAS' GLOSS STARCH

No other starch leaves such a beautiful, clear color or produces such a delicate, subdued, shiny finish, with perfect elasticity and pliability. No acids enter into its manufacture; therefore it cannot injure the daintiest fabrics. Marks an end to cracked, blistered, discolored linen. In 4-oz.-weight packages at all grocers.

BEST FOR ALL KINDS OF STARCHING — For general use, boil as directed. For light starching, unequaled as a cold-water starch, requiring no boiling.

GIRL VICTIM IN DEATH MYSTERY.

The youthful prisoner, George Evans, who tells strange story of the drowning of Marie Vennell in New Jersey, may have to face a murder charge. Evans saved himself after the upsetting of their boat and failed to report the tragedy to the police.

REPUBLICAN 25 YEARS, JOINS LEAGUE RANKS

Disgusted With Trend of Both Old Parties, James Reid Changes Enrollment.

In James Reid of No. 372 Park street, Dorchester, a staunch Republican of twenty-five years' standing, the Independence League has gained a new and earnest recruit in the fight for good government. Mr. Reid, who is a resident of Ward 20, Dorchester, is one of the latest persons to go before the Election Commissioners and change his enrollment, and the name which was carried upon the rolls of the Republican party for a quarter of a century is now associated with the thousands of earnest and conscientious men who are pledged to the principles of the League.

Not until last Mr. Reid joined the League with a determination to work hard for it himself, but he proposes to bring into it many of his old friends, who like himself are heartily tired of the present condition of affairs in the old parties.

"Nothing can stop the progress of the new party," declared Mr. Reid to-day. "Its principals are the principles of decent men, and give the only promise of fair play to all men that has ever been offered in any platform. I have watched the political and economic conditions for many years and have at last become completely disgusted with the trend of both the old parties. The advent of the League with its spirit of fair-dealing for all, its outspoken denunciation of the growing evils and its fearlessness of attack, gave me the first hope I had had in a long time of a real betterment of conditions.

"The old parties will soon be but part of the past. The League will ultimately dominate and then every man will have a fair chance in this community. There will be no more fear of trading monopolies or theft of office as in the New York Mayoralty election. I'm for the League with all my heart."

Mr. Reid is in the restaurant business in Boston.

BERRY FAMINE IN BROCKTON

BROCKTON, June 20.—A strawberry famine stares Brockton in the face, and strawberry festivals bid fair to be a thing of the past, all because of a decree of the Board of Health and legal fights, that dealers in berries and fruits must keep their wares under glass and out of the dust.

Most of the dealers have not facilities for complying with the rule and will be obliged to give up the handling of the berries. Even the soda water dealers are at a loss to know how they can get around the difficulty, for many of them have been in the habit of keeping the crushed berries in open dishes for use with ice cream sodas and college ices.

BLIND CHILDREN ENJOY ANNUAL TRIP IN AUTOS

Hub Dealers and M. R. Deming Give Them Treat at Seashore Home.

By J. C. Kerrison.

Something like one hundred inmates of the Kindergarten for the Blind at Jamaica Plain are to-day being entertained by the Boston automobile dealers and Superintendent M. R. Deming of the Boston Institute Seashore Home. Once a year the dealers and Mr. Deming get together for this most laudable purpose, and that their efforts are appreciated is fully shown by the looks of gratification and pleasure which overspread the countenances of those whose sense of touch is keener than that possessed by man or woman gifted with sight.

Boston has always found great pleasure and real enjoyment in catering on one occasion each year at least to grief-lying and entertaining the blind children. An automobile ride comes to them but once in a lifetime, and when that is coupled with a ramble in the green fields and along the shores of Lake Massapoag, as is the case to-day, the degree of enjoyment is all the greater.

The representatives of the dealers' association at Copley square at 8 o'clock this morning, there being something like seventy-five cars on hand, each dealer being represented by one or more machines. Then under the guidance of Secretary Chester I. Campbell of the Dealers Association the ride to the home in Jamaica Plain was taken up. Here the blind children were eagerly awaiting the horseless vehicles which should carry them over the roads to the country home of the Boston Institute Seashore Home. No time was lost in getting the cars filled with the children, who asked all sorts and kinds of questions regarding the cars, and several of whom seemed pretty conversant in such matters technical relating to the motor vehicle. Some of the children had enjoyed a ride the previous year, and they were not forgetful of the machines in which they rode or the names of the men who drove them, and more than one requested the honor of riding in this, that or the other car, or with some individual driver, who besides caring for his vehicle had been kind and thoughtful enough to answer questions propounded. It was about 10 o'clock when all the cars were loaded and the drive to Sharon commenced. The trip was taken at an easy pace, the arrival being in season to permit a romp over the grass before the serving of lunch.

"To witness the antics of the blind boys and girls in the cars and upon their arrival at Sharon was well worth the trouble of driving them out here," said one of the men, "and I wish it could be done oftener."

Those who donated cars for the day were: Kenneth M. Blake, Locomobile; J. S. Hathaway, White; A. R. Butler, Cleveland; C. Fay, Ford; C. E. Wheeler, Franklin; J. H. MacAlman, Columbia; S. K. Bingle, Waltham; W. M. Jenkins, Mitchell; F. A. Hitchcliffe, Winton; F. E. Kimball, Corbin; J. M. Lincoln, National; E. E. Wing, Marmon; Harry Fosdick, Thomas; A. E. Morrison, Stearns; G. H. Lowe, American Mors; F. F. Smith, Autocar; Kenneth A. Skinner, De Dion; F. E. Whitney, Berliet; F. J. Tyler, Maxwell.

The automobile committee for old home week has determined to hold a series of gymkhana games, bike-riding contest and a parade during the week of festivities. The committee has certainly got its hands full in arranging for so diversified a programme. There certainly should be a week of great happenings in motordom during that period.

* * *

An automobile ride to historic points around Boston is to-day being enjoyed by the wives of the train dispatchers in attendance at the convention now being held in this city. Some half a hundred cars left Hotel Brunswick at 9 o'clock this morning for a trip to the places which are famous in the early history of the United States.

TO GIVE WARFIELD BUSTS AS SOUVENIRS

The 1,000th consecutive performance which David Warfield will have played in "The Music Master," occurs at the Majestic Theatre next Monday night, and the occasion will be commemorated by the distribution of handsome bronze souvenirs. As Warfield began his road season in Boston and "The Music Master" also ends its remarkable successful career here, David Belasco thought it fitting that appropriate souvenirs should mark the event. They will be bronze busts of Mr. Warfield in the character of Herr Anton von Barwig, the central figure of the delightful comedy. Next week Warfield will close his long season and "The Music Master" will live only a pleasant memory.

CANNOT BEAT BOSTON BRIGHT BABY BEAUTIES

Sunday American's $2,100 Prize Contest Proves Their Supremacy.

STILL ROOM FOR MORE.

No other city in the country has any thing to beat Boston in the matter of pretty babies and the bright things that babies say.

These two facts have been proven without shadow of doubt by the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN'S $2,100 baby contest. Nothing has ever before attracted such attention from mothers and fathers, uncles, aunts and grandparents, to say nothing of other relatives.

There is more information about the babies of Greater Boston in the BOSTON AMERICAN office than was ever before gathered in a similar contest. Pictures of handsome, strong youngsters and the bright things they say have just poured into the office since the contest was announced.

Hard to Choose the Best.

It has been no easy matter either to pick out those who are entitled to stand for the first awards.

It is not fair to any baby to have him or her left out of this contest. Suppose you have a youngster in your house that you know is a little darling and a perfect picture in your eyes?

You have not taken the time to enter your prize in the chance for the prizes that the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN wants to give away. Now is the time to get in at the finish." The contest will close before very long.

Think it over and then decide to send in the best picture you have. Baby may win one of the prizes.

Outline of Prize List.

A set of prizes for the most beautiful baby (for complete details see SUNDAY'S AMERICAN).

A house lot, now worth $500, for the baby author of the brightest saying.

A prize of $10 worth of photographs for each baby chosen by the judges every week.

The Bright Sayings part of the affair. You know that your little one has said something that sounded pretty funny. You laughed over it. So did the neighbors. Fine. Why isn't that enough to write out and send in to the Baby Contest Editor of the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN?

Give Your Baby a Chance.

There's a $500 house lot at Wellington Heights, worth that much now, will be worth more later, that is to be given to the child that is decided to have said the brightest thing.

Is it fair to your baby to let him miss that chance?

Another opportunity. A special prize of $100 is to be given for the best picture of mother and child taken together. One of these pictures that has been entered for that prize is produced today. Mrs. F. A. Harding and her pretty little son, Arthur, eleven months old, are going to look at.

There's a man named Harding who would refuse a fortune for that picture if he couldn't get another one like it. And there are lots and lots of fathers in Greater Boston who are just like Harding.

There is room for more in the contest. Until the great event is concluded the Baby Contest Editor of the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN is ready to receive all that come along. Give baby a chance where such a chance is so generously offered.

Watch Neext Sunday's Group.

Next SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN has a group to be proud of. A look at that group will be worth while.

One of the successful contestants, Shirley Thomas, who won 10 worth of photographs, has lost the certificate on the photographer. If it is found and returned to the BOSTON AMERICAN office it will be sent at once to Mr. Thomas. Meanwhile care has been taken to see that no one else collects Mr. Thomas's prize.

COURT UNMOVED BY WIFE'S PLEA

With tear-stained face and trembling with emotion, Mrs. John Kelley of No. 58 Ninth street, South Boston, saw her husband, a soldier in the regular army stationed at Fort Strong, sent away to serve a two months' sentence behind the bars at the House of Correction, Deer Island, because he was convicted of stealing a watch, chain and stickpin, while working for a furniture mover, during a thirty days' furlough which had been given him because of his good army record.

"He's a good husband and the only support of myself and our two little children, and I feel sure that if you give him a chance, your honor, he will do better. John made a horrible mistake, but please don't send him away," Mrs. Kelley pleaded to the court. She sobbed when sentence was pronounced.

GIVE SWORD TO A. H. A. OFFICER

Lieutenant Howard C. Woodbury of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company is eagerly awaiting the call to put on his uniform that he may don also the handsome gold-mounted sword presented to him last night by his friends and fellow-officers.

The presentation occurred at Lieutenant Woodbury's restaurant on Newspaper row at the close of a dinner. Captain Joe Stearns Cushing made the presentation, which included also a belt and cape, and before the dinners had stopped cheering Sergeant William E. Wood presented to Sergeant Charles H. Buchanan of the same organization a large wall clock.

TO INVESTIGATE BIG STEAMSHIP COMPANY

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The Interstate Commerce Commission is to institute a proceeding of inquiry and investigation into the affairs of the Hamburg-American Packet Company, which is charged by Peter Wright & Sons, general agents at Philadelphia of the Cosmopolitan Shipping Company and the Cosmopolitan Line, with pooling and maintaining monopolies in restraint of trade.

Some new priceless art treasures have been unearthed by archaeologists. What they are and descriptions of notable new antiquities are printed in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

SNAPSHOT MAN CAPTURES TEN IN SOMERVILLE

Yes, the Snapshot Man was in Somerville yesterday.

He wandered pretty freely over the city, stopping here and there to take the picture of a citizen or a passer through, he didn't know which.

When the Somerville Ten appear in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN the Snapshot Man believes that the residents of the city will be quite well satisfied with the representation.

If you saw the Snapshot Man, it may mean Ten Dollars for you. Perhaps he got your picture without your knowing it. That happens every week. To make sure whether or not you are in the Somerville Ten, study the pictures in next Sunday's AMERICAN very closely.

Some Unidentified.

Something is wrong with Cambridge. There have been fewer identifications than usual. People in the University city should study the Cambridge Ten published in last Sunday's AMERICAN very closely. If you think you are there, it won't do any harm to call on the Snapshot Man. Prove your identity and you get Ten Dollars.

Does the young woman who is reading this and numbered one remind you of anybody that you know? Who does Number six look like? Number two ought to be well known in Cambridge, as had Number eight.

Ten Dollars for Them.

The Snapshot Man will be glad to hear from them. He has Ten Dollars ready for each person who can be identified.

It might be well for people to remember what they were doing last week when the Snapshot Man was out.

And don't forget that Somerville is represented by ten portraits in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN.

TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE MAY BEGIN AT PITTSBURG

KANSAS CITY SAID TO BE SECOND CHOICE; 71,000 HANDS MAY BE INVOLVED.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Notwithstanding the fact that secrecy has been maintained as to where the contemplated strike of the telegraphers will occur, it was rumored that Pittsburg would probably be selected as the place to begin the strike. Should the Smoky City not be chosen, it is likely that Kansas City will be selected.

Efforts were made to-day to prevent the strike. United States Labor Commissioner Neil has been conferring with the heads of the two companies, in the hope of a settlement. It was stated at the union headquarters in this city to-day that the strike order would be given in a week unless the officials of the telegraph companies come to terms.

With the operators' ultimatum in their hands, the officials of the companies are saying nothing, but it is estimated they are making every effort to be ready to carry on business should a strike be ordered.

If the strike goes into general effect 18,000 Western Union operators and 8,000 Postal operators will go out, and 45,000 railroad operators will refuse to transmit commercial messages.

LOCAL OPERATORS ARE BEING URGED TO FORGET GRIEVANCES

J. J. McGrath, president of the Boston Commercial Telegraphers' Union, said today:

"Since the arrival of Commissioner Charles P. Neill of the Bureau of Commerce and Labor in New York to investigate the differences between the union and the two telegraph companies, the Western Union Company has been using every effort to give themselves a clean bill of health. Papers have been circulated in different cities requesting signatures from the employes that they have received the 10 per cent. increase, and that they have no grievances.

"In New York yesterday a large number of Western Union employes who had not received the increase since March 1, when it was supposed to go into effect, were given vouchers equal to the amount due them under the increase.

"One of these 'no grievance' papers was circulated among the Boston employes of the Western Union yesterday, and some signatures were obtained, either under misapprehension or duress. Some of the signers last night, upon requesting the return of the paper in order that they might erase their names, were peremptorily refused that privilege. That in itself constitutes a serious grievance.

"In some instances where operators had not received the increase in Boston they were promised that it would be attended to immediately if they would sign the paper."

Principal Demands of the Telegraphers

REINSTATEMENT of employes discharged because they were members of union.

Restoration of employes to former salary and position who were reduced because of union affiliations.

That a fixed standard of wages, based on the ten per cent. increase, be established.

Eight hours to constitute a day's work.

Telegraph companies to furnish typewriters.

Abolition of sliding scale of wages.

SHAH'S BROTHER FLEES.

TEHEREN, Persia, June 20.—Salared Dowleh, the rebel brother of the Shah, has taken refuge at the British consulate at Kermanshah and asked security for himself and family.

Strange things have happened to members of the Roosevelt family. By a peculiar series of startling events, the relatives of the President have kept the name continuously before the public. How it has been done told in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

VOTERS ENROLL MONDAY NIGHT

At the request of the Independence League, the City Clerk of Chelsea has decided that he will give voters who wish to change their enrolment an opportunity to do so Monday night between 7 and 8 o'clock.

Members of the Chelsea Independence League will be present to assist all voters who desire to join their party. The City Clerk suggests that all those who intend to come to his office on that night get there as soon after 7 o'clock as possible.

When you have a Bad Breath—Wake up!

WAKE Up. It's time to take a Cascaret,

—When the friend you speak to turns his face the other way,

—When your tongue is coated,

—When you have Heartburn, Belching, Acid Risings in throat,

—When Pimples begin to peep out,

—When your Stomach Gnaws or Burns,

—That's the time to check coming Constipation, Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

One single Candy Cascaret will do it if taken at the right minute, just when you first feel the need of it.

Do it now!

* * *

Cascarets don't Purge, nor Weaken, nor waste Digestive Juices in flooding out the Bowels, like Salts, Castor Oil, "Physics."

But,—they act like Exercise on the Muscles that shrink and expand the Intestines, thus pushing the Food on Naturally to its Finish.

When your Bowel-Muscles grow flabby they need Exercise to strengthen them—not "Physic" to pamper them.

Cascarets provide the bracing tone that is needed specifically by the Bowel-muscles.

* * *

Then carry the little ten-cent "Vest Pocket" box constantly with you, and take a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need it.

One Cascaret at a time will promptly cleanse a foul Breath, or Coated Tongue, thus proving clearly its ready, steady, sure, but mild and effective action.

Have the little 10c Emergency box of Cascarets constantly near you!

All Druggists sell them—over ten million boxes a year, for six years past.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC."

Hard Weather for Babies, Be Careful of Food and Clothes

By Beatrice Fairfax

THIS sudden change in the weather is very hard on the babies.

Every mother is trying to do her best, and yet through ignorance she sometimes does the very worst thing she possibly could.

If the day is very hot her natural impulse is to lighten the baby's clothing, and the result is she lightens it too much.

No matter how hot the day, no young baby should ever be without a flannel band. Their delicate little bodies feel the slightest change in temperature. When the baby's feet are cold, look out for trouble.

If the day is very hot and he is suffering from the heat, take off his dress and petticoat, but leave all the rest of his clothing on.

See That Its Sleep Is Undisturbed by Insects

PUT him on the bed and arrange a canopy of mosquito netting over him to keep the flies off of him, and darken the room completely.

If he has prickly heat, dissolve a tablespoonful of baking soda in a basin of tepid water and sponge him all over two or three times a day. Then powder him lightly with talcum powder.

If you do all this, you will add materially to his comfort and to your own peace of mind.

Most important of all, be careful about his feeding. If he is a bottle baby and seems to turn against his food, lighten the food.

Grown people turn from their food in very hot weather, so why should not the baby feel the same way? Add a little more boiled water than usual to each bottle.

See that the milk is kept where it will be absolutely pure and sweet and wash the bottles in boiling water. Keep the rubber nipples in a jar of boiled water.

The Grave Danger in Impure Milk

THE least particle of sour or putrid milk may cost the baby's life.

You cannot pay too strict attention to the cleanliness of the milk and bottles.

If the baby has reached the age when he is beginning to eat solids a thoroughly well-cooked cereal and milk will do for one meal of the day.

Rice, with mutton or beef broth, is good for him, also a well-cooked baked potato. A little stewed fruit or a scraped apple will also agree with him.

Remember that if you wish your baby to thrive during the hot weather, you must pay strict attention to his food and clothing. Under no circumstances leave off his band, and lighten his food discreetly.

Dainty Muslin for Hot Weather Wear

Pink Flowered Muslin, Simple Model, but Becoming and Cool for the Woman in Search of Comfort in Hot Weather

BY GRACE HYMAN

THE simplest muslin dresses are prettiest. This model, worn by one of Boston's most fashionable women, is quite plain, but extremely becoming. The waist is made with a square-cut neck and the wide kimono armholes. It is trimmed with broad, heavy embroidery stitched on nine bands of the muslin. The skirt is pleated at the waist and a full ruffle attached at the knee, below three graduated tucks. The sash is worn over a blouse of finely tucked white organdie. The muslin is white, with sprays of tiny pink flowers.

Handy Things for Housewives to Know

THE use of ammonia is a great saving of labor. When scrubbing kitchen tables and floors add a little ammonia to the water used, and you will find that it will whiten them in a very short time. Silver and polished goods can easily be cleaned if they are washed in warm water to which has been added one teaspoonful of ammonia to each cupful of water.

If the kitchen is tiled in any part, wipe it over with skimmed milk once a week after washing it. A newspaper will be found useful for keeping the tiles every month or two with linseed oil, and then to polish them with a soft cloth.

To clean the kitchen sink wash it thoroughly with ammonia and warm water. Common sulphate of iron dissolved in the proportion of one pound to four gallons of water and poured over the sink will make it quite clean and sweet.

Brass, copper and tinware should be cleaned with turpentine. Wood ashes and soap are sometimes used for brightening copper utensils. Turpentine gives a fine polish to tinware, and is efficacious in cleaning bath enamel which has become discolored. Dip a cloth in the turpentine, rub the stained parts, and polish them afterward with a soft duster.

The cleaning of brooms is seldom thought necessary, but they require cleaning as much as anything else, and if washed occasionally will be found to last far longer than they otherwise would. About once a week prepare a good lather of hot water and soap, and into it dip the brush, shaking it until it is nearly dry, and hang it up with the bristles downward until it is quite dry.

HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL

BY THE PROFESSOR

BEAUTY is the outward sign of inward harmony. Every woman has desires to be beautiful and to have her daughters goodly to look upon—but the physical development and care of the girl is still too often sadly neglected in "the home"—while the mental side of her nature is developed to the extreme at school.

Mothers and teachers should in concert look more after the physical training of the girls. A few simple suggestions about proper exercising will prove beneficial if carried out.

The best time for indoor exercising is immediately upon arising in the morning, unless it should be taken before retiring. A warm sponge bath is good afterward, and a brisk rubbing is advisable.

Have the windows wide open while exercising and inhale deeply of the pure outer air.

For the waist and abdominal muscles place hands over hips, thumbs back, bend body at waist line, and bow it, as far as possible backward; inhale as body is brought to erect position and exhale as body is bent as far as possible forward; repeat five times.

Bend body to the right as far as possible, inhale as it is brought erect and exhale as it is bent as far as possible to the left. Repeat five times.

Bend body forward as far as possible at the waist line, rotating toward the right. Repeat five times.

FRECKLES

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Is there any way to use the freckle lotion containing the juice of lettuce so it will not make the face unpresentable at the time of using and yet remove the freckles? Can I reduce the flesh on my neck?

MADGE.

THE object of the freckle lotion is to remove the cuticle, uncovering a new surface which has not been exposed to the sun or wind and which, as yet, is not freckled, so you cannot do this without the rough appearance attendant upon this condition. For the neck, roll up the flesh between the thumb and forefinger and pinch it slightly, but gently. This tends to destroy the fat and combined with neck exercise to harden the muscles ought to take away the superfluous fat from the neck.

HAIR BLEACH

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you please tell me of something that will bleach the hair on my arms without injuring the skin? I have a great many hairs on my arms and as they are very dark they show a great deal, spoiling the looks of the arms.

PEROXIDE of hydrogen will bleach the hairs if applied often enough and strong enough. Dab it on persistently until you obtain the desired result as it is perfectly harmless.

WHITEN FACE

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you kindly tell me how to whiten the face and hands? I have a pimply nose and would like to know what will make it white.

ANGELA E.

BUTTERMILK used daily on the face is a good whitener, none better; also lemon juice rubbed on while the face is covered with orange cream. For the hands use equal parts of lemon juice, honey or glycerin and cologne. Rub vigorously over face and pulling downward if you can help the condition in a degree, but be careful not to bruise the flesh, just gently reminding it that its position is lower in life than the one it has assumed. It will take a long time for you to see any change, but the constant treatment will show in time.

THE WOMAN EXTRAVAGANT.

THE question of whether women of the present day have become more extravagant than those of a bygone age is one which will undoubtedly provoke more discussion than dissents on the subject. Men are finding it more difficult year by year to make enough money to keep their wives in the style to which they call "absolute necessities." It is becoming more and more essential to the up-to-date woman to try to outshine her neighbor. The married man who was passing rich on a small salary a few years ago now reckons himself poor. His wife wants, in fact, twice the income now to keep up with her extravagances.

It is not entirely her fault. Perhaps in those far-off days when a woman's sole occupation seemed to consist of her sitting at home ruining her eyesight over tapestry and fine needlework, there was not much occasion for her to spend money. There was no milena an which to spend a fortune. Women were more or less ciphers then.

Now things are different and women are allowed more liberty, license and "say" in almost everything. Very few women really know the value of money, save those who have learned it through hard coming by it themselves and the consequences be that when a woman has the spending of her husband's money it runs through her hands like water.

To a great extent this is man's own fault; everything is done on a large scale, and it must be obvious to everyone that, unless a person regulates his expenditure by his income, so as to live within it, ruin, or something equally bad, must ensue. What would be extravagance in a person of limited means might be just expenditure with a person of larger property, and yet we all—or many of us—try to live up to the standard of the latter, without considering that we are bound to come a cropper.

Beware, Girls! This Doctor Can Tell Flirts by Facial Wrinkles

By Dr. Emil Reich

Says Coquetry Leaves Unmistakable Lines About the Eyes and Around the Temples

IN Italy people love; in France they talk amour; in England and America they flirt. Can anything be more characteristic of the social soul of these nations? Flirtation rises in virulence as we go north from the latitude of Paris. I do not think that either England or America can beat Norway in her consummate flirts. This and the following month are the heyday of flirtation. During the other months of the year the sweet deceit goes on only between young people.

During the Summer season flirtation is briskly proceeding between all the ages. The mixed-up effects of over fifty, the diplomatist with little hair and less teeth, the retired army officer with more fire than heart—they all flirt at receptions, at homes, concerts, conferences and conventions. Flirtations are the "coppers" of love, the puny pennies thrown to a poor person who can do no more than open or close one's cab door. It is the "tip" of love, the make-believe of it. It is dry and cold and enticating—the very dry shampoo of love.

Love is as different from flirtation as is youth from old age. Love is warm, pleading, passionate, frankly human. A man who really loves a woman would like to make her into a bouillon and swallow her. In Hungary we say, "I eat that dear heart of yours," and all the nations where love is still in its prime want to "devour" the girl of their affection. Such is love.

Not Taken Seriously

IN England, as in America, people are too busy to love. As I pointed out some time ago, the lemonade amusements, such as music halls, light comedy, cheap literature—all this indicates that people are too busy to take amusement seriously. A man jaded to death by forty hours' work of telegrams a day cannot in the evening indulge in the excitement of either a heart-shaking tragedy or the passion of an all-absorbing love. So he flirts.

He flirts with literature in reading vapid novels; he flirts with music by attending wilfully conceived and vilely played music of the tenth order; he flirts with politics by contenting himself with a vapid article in which he is glorified as a member of the model of nations. He even flirts with religion.

It is thus that flirtation becomes a national institution. It pervades the whole life.

The Flirtatious Face

FLIRTATION tells even in the architecture, if I may say so, of our faces. Since the muscles of the cheeks and chin and mouth are by constant attempt to simulate passion or impassive surface practically never exercised, all the animations, and thus the whole machinery of flirtation, is restricted to the eyes and to the immediate neighborhood of the eyes. By overcharging the muscles, especially of the temples, with work done in other countries by all the facial ropes and sets of coppery, too many a woman has heavy wrinkles around her eyes.

In fact, it will not be too far from truth to say that whenever one sees a woman with fine wrinkles one can almost clearly drawn near her eyes one may with fairly certainty assume that she is an experienced flirt. Her words have meanings of their own, and to speak plainly, one or another of the enterprising publishers ought to publish a dictionary of flirt slang.

THE NEWEST OCCUPATION.

THESE days of straitened incomes and overcrowded employment make the invention of new ways of earning money practically a necessity.

Many girls now make a comfortable income by acting as hourly nurse to a number of families, taking children daily for an hour or an hour and a half in the park.

Many men marry young in their profession as well as young in years, and want of funds necessitates their wives taking an active share in their household.

It is to those households that the "caller by the hour" is of such inestimable value.

She begins her day early; in the Summer at five, while it is light out at 9 o'clock, and is brought back about half past 10, by which time the mother has had time to get through the writing of her letters and orders for the day.

A child from another family is called for about 11, and the mother knows that until luncheon the little one will be well looked after and out of the way.

After refreshing herself with a good midday meal, or, more likely, a glass of milk and a sandwich, the hourly nurse divides the afternoon between the park, where she takes the children of two more clients, and in the long Summer evenings probably has a third to take out.

Of course, wet weather and cloudy days are inevitable, but on these the child and the "caller by the hour" is often the one who least used in the house, and both mother and nurse are grateful and all the better for this quiet respite of an hour and a half daily.

"THE HERITAGE OF HATE"

CHAPTER XLIX.

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner.

AUBREY, having retired to his library that evening as usual at the earliest opportunity after the conclusion of the dinner, at which his sole companion-elect had been present, was considerably surprised when after a preliminary tap at the door Horrocks entered and requested the privilege of speaking with him for a moment.

"Certainly," said Aubrey graciously, "although I cannot imagine what it is that you can have to say to me."

"It's about my young lady, sir," stammered the faithful old butler nervously. "I—I wanted to ask you, sir—"

He stopped short, overcome by his nervousness, his wrinkled old hands were trembling and his knees shook under him. Aubrey, looking at him intently, was struck by the fact that his hair was whiter than when he had last noticed it; his furrowed face, too, was thinner and paler.

"Have you not been so well as usual lately, Horrocks?" he asked, moved by sympathy to a momentary forgetfulness of his own heavy grief. "This journey of mine has been getting worse."

"No, sir," faltered the agitated old man, "leastways, nothin' to speak of. If I don't look very well, it's because I've been worrying about this marriage that's goin' on, sir. It seems to me, sir, that you'll forgive my being so bold—as it's a dreadful thing that my young lady should marry Mr. Wynn. If it was ever to come out that—"

He hesitated again. Aubrey stared at him in amazement, not unmixed with severity.

"Are you losing your senses, Horrocks?" he demanded. "What on earth do you mean by saying that it is a dreadful thing that Miss Heath should marry Mr. Wynn? Explain yourself!"

"You commanded, Horrocks threw disrespect in my 'ands and answered me back, sir, try, yet apologetically.

"You know that I did, sir, the day I fetched you the portrait, sir, here in this very room, that I considered Miss Heath a lady, sir, as she'd had anything to do with the death of young Mr. Wynn, which I said I'd stake my life as she's never had a hand in it; and so I would have done, and so I would do now, willingly, this very minute. And I said, too, if you remember, sir, as I considered Miss Heath people had been a bit sharp they wouldn't have had to look far for a man to marry her daughter, sir, for there's no many's the time, and I've thought so myself, sir, when I've seen how bad my suspicions for you might say, these last few years; but they've never been out of my mind; and, lately, since it's been settled about my young lady's marriage, I've been more troubled than ever, sir, and day and night about it. And it seemed to me to be my plain duty to come and speak to you about it, because it would be a dreadful thing if Miss Heath was to marry Mr. Wynn and you was afterward to discover that it was Mr. Wynn that murdered Mr. Wynn."

"Horrocks!"

"I beg your pardon, sir," faltered the old butler. "But it's right for me to say what I think in particular, sir, and I should forbid that I should peruse anybody of a crime so black as murder, sir, if I was to see it in their eyes. You must 'ave noticed, sir, that I've been a bit sharp they wouldn't have had to look far for a man to marry Miss Heath, sir, for there's no many's the time, and I've thought so myself, sir, when I've seen how bad my suspicions for you might say, these last few years; but they've never been out of my mind; and, lately, since it's been settled about my young lady's marriage, I've been more troubled than ever, sir, and day and night about it. And it seemed to me to be my plain duty to come and speak to you about it, because it would be a dreadful thing if Miss Heath was to marry Mr. Wynn and you was afterward to discover that it was Mr. Wynn that murdered Mr. Wynn."

"Horrocks!"

"I beg your pardon, sir," faltered the old butler. "But it's right for me to say what I think in particular, sir, and I should forbid that I should peruse anybody of a crime so black as murder, sir, if I was to see it in their eyes. You must 'ave noticed, sir, that I've been a bit sharp there

Avenged Sister Weeps at Her Work, Mourning De Simone's Living Death

GIRL UNABLE TO VISIT BOY SLAYER'S CELL

"I've Lost Best Friend," Cries Louise DeSimone, Whose Brother Shot Employer.

SENT TO JAIL FOR LIFE

WEEPING as she sews and crying "Antonio!" Louise De Simone, who, brother Antonio was yesterday failed for life as the penalty for killing the employer who wronged her, refused to be consoled and blames herself for the living death faced by her brother.

"My poor brother! My poor brother!" cried Miss De Simone today, when a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN informed her of the life sentence imposed upon Antonio, by Judge Lawton yesterday, for taking the life of Leonardo Gaetano at Washington and Hollis streets on April 9.

"I feel like crying all the time," she said. "My boss won't give me a chance to see my brother. My poor brother! I lost the best friend I ever had. I don't know what to do. Every time I make a stitch in the coat I cry out Antonio! Antonio!

"There is nobody in this world like my Tony. I don't think I'll ever see him again in this house. I may go over to see him, if my boss allows me. I work in the North End now. Every Italian friend speak kind words for my brother.

Last evening a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter called at the home of the father and mother of the principal actors in this life tragedy, the last act of which was rung down in the Superior Criminal Court yesterday when the son was sent away for life. The scene indeed was a sad one.

Prince De Simone, the father, fifty-four years old, lives with his wife and three small children and their grown up daughter Louise, who is the sister Antonio avenged, at No. 13 Savoy street, in a small tenement of four rooms.

Mr. De Simone is at present out of employment. When acquainted of the fate of his son, he trembled violently, as also did his wife, and both wept. Through his little daughter he told the reporter that he had been in this country fourteen years; that he had always lived an honest, upright life and that his heart was too full to speak of the tragedy. He regretted his son's rash act, he said, and believed he must have been insane from brooding over his sister's wrongs at the time of the shooting.

FRANCE QUELLS STRIKING MOB; SEEKS LEADER

PARIS, June 20.—Official advices received by Premier Clemenceau today give the number of casualties in yesterday's rioting at Narbonne, the centre of the disaffected wine growing district, as five killed and eighty seriously injured, scores sustaining minor injuries, such as broken heads and slight sabre wounds, of which no mention was made. The injured were all victims of the charges made by the cavalry to break down the barricades erected in the streets for the strikers.

Today's news from the disturbed area indicates that a calm has succeeded the day evening's disorders, and that the activity of the cavalry has had a quieting effect on the strikers. The government today has the upper hand, and there has been no looting, and there is no present possibility of mob rule.

The government troops continue to hold the city of Nemes and are guarding all roads and prosecuting a general search for Marcelin Albert, the leader of the strikers, who is still at large, despite yesterday's reports of his capture.

HISGEN SPURNS OFFER TO RUN ON WHITNEY TICKET

"I Am Not a Whitney Democrat or a Whitney Man," Says Successful Foe of Standard Oil.

Dangling as a bait the proffer of second place on the Democratic State ticket, friends of Henry M. Whitney have endeavored to flatter Thomas L. Hisgen, president of the Four Brothers' Independent Oil Company and staunch foe of the Standard Oil Trust, into making an alliance with their side.

Mr. Hisgen not only refused to seriously consider the proposition, but positively spurned it.

"I am not a Whitney Democrat or a Whitney man in any sense of the term, and I would not run with him on any ticket," was the reply of the trust fighter.

Pleads with Trust Fighter.

Mr. Hisgen was approached a few days ago in Springfield by a prominent Democrat and told that, if he should endeavor to secure the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, he would find the friends of Mr. Whitney helping him.

"Mr. Whitney is going to put up a great fight," this man said to him, "and you should get on the band wagon. I know that it could be fixed so that the old man would welcome you to the ticket as his running mate. He is going to be nominated and elected, and this is your great opportunity."

There was more talk of that nature, interspersed with complimentary remarks relative to Mr. Hisgen's strong personality and his popularity with the people because of his fight against the big Trust, and he was assured that the nomination for second place could be his for a simple assurance that he would run with Whitney. Mr. Hisgen listened patiently, and then replied as follows:

Differ on Public Questions.

"Mr. Whitney and I do not think alike on public questions, and I don't think we ever will. He favors this New York, New Haven & Hartford swallowing of the Boston & Maine railroad, because it is for his private interest to do so. I am opposed to it, because I think it is opposed to public interest and would put the commercial and industrial interests of Massachusetts completely at the mercy of a railroad Trust. It would mean the absolute domination by the Standard Oil Company, which controls the New Haven road, of the transportation facilities of this State.

"Mr. Whitney is making a great ado about the tariff and reciprocity with Canada, when every one knows his election as Governor would not affect either a little bit. Fighting the Standard Oil is issue enough for me. It has been my battle for years, and I don't think it would look nice for me to be the running mate of a man who favors the gobbling of all railroads by the Standard Oil Company would be a good thing.

Popular With League.

"No, sir; I could not be induced to run with Mr. Whitney. I don't know him personally and did not avail myself of his invitation to call and see him. He may be the nicest man in the world socially, but politically he and I could not hitch up. So you may tell your friends who are interested in Mr. Whitney that, under no circumstances, would I run on the same ticket with him for a State office or any other.

"There is a strong sentiment in the Independence League in favor of having Mr. Hisgen run for Governor on the League ticket. Last year he was the candidate for State auditor and made a fine showing on the stump and at the polls. He was one of the first members of the Independence League in this State and has never hesitated to preach its principles. The fact that he holds the great bulk of the oil trade in the western part of the State, even though he has to battle against cutting, price-cutting and the giving away of oil on the part of the Standard Oil Company, attests his business and personal popularity where he is best known.

WINS FORTUNE IN WHEAT PIT; WEDS

CHICAGO, June 20.—Following his daring plunge on the wheat market, in which he won a fortune of $500,000 for both himself and Mrs. Samuel A. McLean, widow of his best friend, David Bruce Roberts, nephew of Field Marshal Lord Roberts, commander-in-chief of the British army has been married to Mrs. McLean at her country home, Glenwood Lodge, Glen Ellyn.

LAD OF 9 GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

BALTIMORE, June 20.—The youngest murderer in the history of the local criminal courts was convicted of manslaughter.

Sidney Hollis, colored, nine years old, shot William H. Griffin, eleven years old, on June 1, after a quarrel over a game of marbles. Hollis was the most unconcerned person in court, several times falling asleep during the trial. Judge Dobler suspended sentence.

Can't Fool Anty Drudge.

Glib Soap Canvasser—"I'm representing a new naphtha soap. Let me leave you a cake for trial. It's the best laundry soap you can try, and far ahead of what you're using."

Anty Drudge—"Is that so! See here young fellow. There are no substitutes for Fels-Naptha soap, no more in there is for an honest dollar. You can't bunco me with a worthless imitation of the genuine Fels-Naptha."

Four million hours at least of hard disagreeable work are saved the women of this nation every week by Fels-Naptha soap. That is 208 million hours, or 26 million working days of 8 hours each every year.

Isn't that a record for Fels-Naptha to be proud of? Then there's the saving in health, in the wear of clothes, and in lots of other ways as well. More than a million women are using Fels-Naptha every wash-day.

It takes Fels-Naptha in cold or lukewarm water about half the time it would take by the old-fashioned hot-water way. Try it next wash-day yourself. Soap your white clothes with Fels-Naptha, roll them and let them soak for 30 minutes. Then give a light rub, rinse thoroughly, and hang on the line.

No hot fire to blister your face, no steaming suds to scald your hands, no nauseating smell about the house, no back-breaking work over the washboard. Isn't it worth trying?

Directions for washing all kinds of clothes, and many other uses of Fels-Naptha, on inside of the red and green wrapper. Follow them carefully.

RALPH GLAZE MAY GET CHANCE AT SOX

BATTING ORDER.

BOSTON	CHICAGO.

With anything like an even break at the start the third with the Sox should look good for us.

Getting a bad start against the Sox is sure to end up disasterously, and for that matter it's generally the case whatever the team might be.

A bunch of runs in the opening inning makes it an uphill fight for the visitors and the offenders can slide along putting as well in here and there for good measure. That was the case yesterday and the Sox naturally walked off with the win which leaves the games one a piece and there is little choice in the selection in to-day's argument. The increasing size of the crowds tells the tale of stating the teams up as none of the fans want to miss seeing the Pilgrims give the Sox another walloping.

It's a heavy job for any of the pitchers, but Ralph Glaze has handled some large propositions this season, and if he gets a chance will extend himself to get a Sox scalp on his belt.

"Strongman" Smith is likely to peddle out his wares to the Pilgrims.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

It was bad business at the start.

* * *

* * *

The Sox had all the luck there was in the game and couldn't have lost.

* * *

* * *

Umpire Tim Hurst had his troubles when he called a runner out and Hob Ferris dropped the ball. He was only evening up a poor decision he gave on Parent running to second.

* * *

There was some citrous-hued individual ing the first base bleachers who imagined he was funny by tosing lemons out. He didn't get any encouragement.

* * *

The throwing of Armbruster was killing.

You can tell a natural hitter. He doesn't let any of the good ones get by him.

Lawyer Sam Elder was right in his element in the midst of the Yale ball players who sat in the stand chaperoned by Coach Billy Lush.

Captain "Dunnie" Dexter with several of the Crimson players were also watching the game and stood up their fans on the diamond to-day.

Hobe Ferris was at his best and was cutting up everything besides getting in several telling assists.

The way that veteran George Davis took the ball all over the lot and passed to Isbell backhanded were gems of the art.

SOLDIERS FIELD, CAMBRIDGE, June 20.—With crimson banners flying and a band playing baseball war songs, a thousand sons of Harvard marched upon the field to-day to cheer the Crimson baseball team on to victory in their annual battle with Yale here. The weather was far from ideal, but the spirit of the spectators was wrought to the highest pitch of excitement.

Arriving on the field the Crimson aggregation was greeted with volley after volley of cheers from the opposing stands filled with Yale men and sympathizers and blue with the colors of old Eli. The Harvard cheering section took its usual place on the bleachers between third and home, the cheering and singing being led by H. Foster, Jr., '07, the former varsity football captain; W. Minot, '07, captain of this year's varsity track team, John D. White, president of the senior class, L. P. Dodge, '07, and Harrol Parker, '08, captain of next year's football team.

Betting Favors Yale.

The betting was slightly in favor of Yale in the morning, when it was doubtful whether Leonard, the Crimson crack third baseman, would be able to play, but when it was definately announced at noon that he would be able to hold down third base, the fans offered even money. All the Yale ends in sight was eagerly taken by Crimson supporters who cried for more.

The Yalesians, reassured by Harvard's erratic playing of the last few weeks, and the poor judgment shown by the Harvard management in assigning players, especially noticeable in the Bowdoin defeat, came to the Crimson's diamond fully confident of winning.

Who and impartial college fans considered the two teams well matched. Both teams had been beaten by Princeton and neither could make any claim on the championship. Yale had won twelve out of the twenty-two games played and Harvard had won thirteen out of nineteen. Five out of thirteen of Harvard's victories had been due to desperate rallies.

Yale brought four good hitters in Kinney, Jones, Madden and Camp, while Harvard's batting strength lay in Dexter, Currier, Leonard and Briggs.

Good and Bad Points.

In general it looked to the "dopesters" like a case of the Crimson's better fielding and pitching against Yale's better batting and base running. The weak points of the opposing teams were the light hitting of Harvard and the ineffective pitching of Yale.

Yale had shown no terrier in a class with Hartford, and the Crimson expected to win if the southpaw was in his usual form.

The Crimson management was severely criticized in not putting McCarthy in the field in place of Harvey, and in keeping Dana in right garden after his poor performance in the Bowdoin game. The fans were surprised not to see Parsons, who saw twiield all season for Yale, on the bench.

CHICAGO, June 20.—This afternoon's game between the Doves and the Cubs will be the last in a long time. The series now stands two to one in favor of the locals, but the Tenney nine hopes to take to-day's battle and thus brink even.

The visitors played great ball in this city. They have made only one misplay in three games. They only lost the opening game by one run, and the second by two runs. Yesterday's contest resulted in their favor.

Gus Dorner will probably pitch for the visitors to-day, while Lundgren will undoubtedly work for the Cubs.

The game yesterday went to the Hub team, 5 to 4. The visitors got a good start in the first inning when they scored three runs on one hit. They got two more in the seventh on Needham's homer, with a man on base.

The home team didn't get on to Flaherty until the sixth, when they tallied three times. They got one more in the seventh, which ended their scoring for the day. The Bostons batted Jack Pfeister hard at times, and fielded in excellent form.

bKeene entry.

NEW YORK, June 20.—"Suburban day," the greatest racing day of the American turf for the most coveted prize offered for the older division of thoroughbreds, promises to excel all previous records to-day.

If the weather is fair 50,000 are expected at the Sheepshead Bay tracks.

On all figuring of form, it must be conceded that the chances of Electioneer in the Suburban are second to none.

The son of Voter has only faced the barrier once this season, when the Standard Stakes at Gravesend, and had to meet the mighty champion, Superman, at even weights. That race is too recent to speak about. At the start Electioneer took the lead, but relinquished it to Peter Pan after a half mile had been run and tired. He held on behind the Keene horse in the backstretch, and when it was necessary to make his final bid he had to overcome but many lengths.

He was palpably short at this stage, but with the aid of the whip, Koerner brought him alongside and forced Peter Pan to extend himself. When they crossed under the wire Peter Pan was the winner by three-quarters of a length. It was agreed after the finish by all the racing experts that if Electioneer had had the advantage of one or two races, he would surely have taken the Commander out in front. Another big advantage in favor of Electioneer is that Mountain will be in the saddle, and as a follower of pace he has no equal.

Beacon Light's Chances.

For the place Beacon Light figures to have a splendid chance. He ran close second to Superman in the Brooklyn Handicap and on his next appearance, a few days ago, he ran the Suburban distance in 2:00 3-5, pulled up to a walk. This was a race in mud, and he will undoubtedly go faster to-day with a good track. Flip Flap, although carrying the top weight, showed speed when she won the Marlboro that she must be considered a sure horse to be in the money.

The vice-chairman of the Jockey Club, James R. Keene, will have a strong bid for the stake with Superman and Veil. Superman's last effort was in the Belmont when he carried even weights with Peter Pan and finished some two lengths behind his stable mate. Peter Pan looked quite able to increase the distance, and taking this as a line Superman does not seem in class with Electioneer. Veil only started once, and then not with a lot of experience. I do not think that she is really fit for a race.

Too Fast for Montgomery.

Montgomery would figure to have an excellent chance were there no fast from Pennsylvania in the race. There is, in fact, much speed in the race that Montgomery will likely be too far out of it when it comes down to the final struggle in the stretch. Dandelion, which finished second in the Suburban of 1906, has not shown any form this season to give him a look in, although he is said to be in great shape. Cottontown has worked out the distance of the race in the great time of 2:02, but notwithstanding this, he cannot be taken seriously on this occasion. Running Water, the hope of the Newcastle Stable, has faced the barrier twice this season, but came far from showing her old form. "Doots" Durnell will send Nealon and Faust to the post, but although they have good races to their credit, they have not beaten anything of much account. None of the other's figure better than 100 to 1 chance.

'MET' DRIVERS HOLD SEASON'S BEST MATINEE

By far the best matinee of the season was held by the Metropolitan Driving Club at the Charles River speedway, the majority of fields being of the kind when the winner could not be told till the final strides of the contestants. Superintendent Gilmon had the course in the finest condition, which caused the time made to be very fast.

The Furbushes carried off three of the eight events, the only one of the horses started by that family of great horsemen being the trotter Lassie, which surprised the spectators immensely, as it was so well known what a tremendous turn of speed she has. Hutmaa, the property of F. C. Gorman, however, was just capable of turning the trick, but had to go four heats before getting the blue ribbon.

Tom Phair essayed to beat 1:02½ against the watch. In the initial attempt he tied the mark, and in the second fell a quarter of a second under. Chief Wilkie had not recovered from his Franklin Field Speedway suffocation to start in his trial against time.

Following is the summary of the winners and the fastest time in each race:

Class A, trotting—Nornet (H. R. Ralston), 1:05½. Class B, pacing—Al. Hay (A. J. Furbush), 1:03½. Class C, trotting—Arlita (C. C. Mayberry), 1:06½. Class D, trotting—Hutmaa (F. C. Garmont), 1:05½. Class E, pacing—Powder (H. W. Gove), 1:08½. Class F, pacing—Outcast (W. J. Furbush), 1:04. Class G, pacing—Conundrum (W. J. Furbush), 1:07¾. Class H, trotting—Katina (W. J. Furbush), 1:12½.

Notes of the Harness Horses

Fred H. Bellows has bought of W. C. Parker the black trotting mare, Lady Kinsley, for road and speedway racing. This mare was started in light harness at Charles River Speedway last year, and gave promise of becoming one of the fastest trotters in that class. She is by Kinsley Boy.

Dick Laurence is getting Boy del Diablo (2:21¾) down to sharp work at Commington Park, having worked the gelding in 2:16¾, the last quarter in 31 seconds.

Also on the same track Frank Fay stepped Dr. Hood (2:15¾) in 2:08, and the pride of his heart, Alberta (2:20¼) in 2:20¼.

Reports from Taunton are to the effect that Joe Goodwin is fairly burning up the track for E. B. Smith, his trainer.

Driving-owning-or-doing Maine horsemen Henry Tiley will fail for short if he doesn't win a bunch of coin with the mare Fernando (2:04¾), as they all swear that last season he worked a mile over a half-mile track down there in 2:10, and not an outside.

H. H. Lodge, of Boston, has at Ellsworth, Me., the trotting mare Miss Orlando (2:29¾) that will be campaigned by E. H. Greene, and a three-year-old by Colonel Cox, which is very promising.

Trainer Johnny Marston, Pittsfield, N. H., has sold to C. J. Burgin, Manchester, the pacing mare Corona (2:15¾).

RACING YACHTS ARE DELAYED BY THE FOG

MARBLEHEAD, June 19.—The sonder boats racing to qualify for the Kaiser cup races were held up this morning when the hour of starting the day's trials was on tap as a thick fog enveloped the sea and the course could not be distinguished. The committee were forced to postpone operations till the fog lifted.

It was announced to-day that another cup had been offered for the sonder boats to compete for, presented by the yacht club of Vilthos, Spain, and the American entries will probably compete for it, as well as the Kaiser and King Alfonso trophies.

The standing of the boats in the trials to date is: Marblehead, 16; Cheswick VII., 16; Jolly VII., 2b; Spokeone I., 21; Spokeone II., 28; Corinthian, 33; Maria, 34.

The designer of the Maria came over from ovYrk this morning, as there had been rumors that the crew of the local were not getting the best out of her.

YOUNG ERNE BEAT SUMMERS

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—With each man weighing under the required 120 pounds at 6 p. m., Young Erne of this city and Johnny Summers of England met here last night and the local boy won easily, having the better of five out of six rounds. In the last three rounds the Englishman clung on to save himself from a knockout.

Cold Piano Facts

We don't make any pianos. We don't advertise any special pianos. We have nothing special to say about any piano in particular. The Piano Trust is fighting us and we are fighting the Piano Trust tooth and nail. We ask no mercy—we expect none—and we give none. Trust pianos are fine, in fact some of the finest pianos in the world are in the Trust, and we sell these same pianos every week at Trust-fighting prices—Lower, away lower by many dollars than you can buy them any place in this wide world. We lose money, they say. Well, that's our business. What do you care? You buy while the fight is on; never mind our losses. We'll take care of ourselves. Come this week and see the fight.

Why Commit Suicide, Young Man?

Would THAT Do You Any Good?

Here is an exact copy of a letter sent to the editor of this newspaper:

Dear Sir—Very few of your editorials have escaped my reading for at least two years. In many of these editorials you pay special attention to will power.

I am exceedingly ambitious, but extremely weak-minded. Suicide is in my mind constantly, especially after some temptation has swept me off my feet, and my mind wavers so much that I am in a state of perpetual misery.

I am sure an editorial regarding the cultivation of the will would help thousands of young men like myself. A YOUNG MAN IN DESPAIR.

It is a pathetic letter, and it must be answered. We shall begin by asking the young man some questions:

You say that you yield to temptation and then want to kill yourself. What good would it do to kill yourself? You would prove yourself a coward, you would achieve nothing else.

If you don't like this life, are you sure that the other side of the grave is any brighter than this side?

A man may feel gloomy when the sun doesn't shine, but he doesn't climb down into the cellar or into a sewer. He makes up his mind to do his best until the sun comes out again.

Don't you suppose that millions of men are discouraged and have been discouraged, and with far greater reasons than your reasons? Can you not realize, as they realized, that what makes life worth while is the chance to fight AND TO PROVE YOURSELF NOT A COWARD? Suicide is another word for cowardice.

The only thing that is really worth while is manly effort. And the harder you have to struggle, the more pride you ought to take in your determination to fight it out successfully.

You can live at most a few years. Death will come and get you soon enough; you have nothing to gain by hurrying him.

So far as you know, the only chance that you will ever have is in your hands now. THE NOW you know about. All the rest is belief or guesswork.

You have a chance to prove yourself a decent, courageous man NOW.

You have a chance even yet to prove yourself worthy of your mother and the care that she gave you. Is a cowardly suicide to repay her for suffering courageously endured, and for years of affection?

Instead of thinking about the temptations that attack you and about suicide simultaneously, why not think of those temptations with contempt and hatred and an absolutely definite determination to overcome them?

You ask this newspaper to write "an editorial regarding the cultivation of the will."

Will power means turning your face in the right direction and walking in the right direction. Turn away from the cowardly thought of suicide—that is the poltroon's thought.

You know in which direction temptation lies. TURN IN THE OTHER DIRECTION. You can do that if you want to. All you require is TO WANT TO DO WHAT YOU OUGHT TO DO.

What is it that attracts you and overcomes you? Is it drink or gambling, or some drug, or some other weakness or vice? Do you love this folly so that you would rather die a cowardly and shameful death than give it up?

Your idea concerning cultivation of the will is a good idea. The way to cultivate the will IS TO USE IT. If you did not use your feet for a while, you would not be able to walk. If you lived for a few years in a dark cellar and did not use your eyes, your sight would go.

BRING BACK YOUR WILL BY EXERCISING IT, and do it systematically. There is a great deal more fun and triumph in overcoming the vicious promptings that discourage you than in creeping out of life via the suicide route.

Many very good men have contemplated suicide in their despair, and have subsequently risen to great success and honor, to rejoice that they overcame the cowardly impulse. May you be such a one. When you think of suicide, LAUGH AT YOURSELF AND DENOUNCE YOURSELF AS A COWARD WITH DULL REASON.

Life lasts only a few years. You would smile at one of those yellow butterflies if you saw it trying to drown itself in a mud puddle, and you would say to it, "Don't be in such a hurry, butterfly, the first cold snap will end you."

The man that talks of suicide is as foolish as a yellow butterfly would be trying to end its few days in the mud puddle.

In developing your will, try to think less about yourself and more about SOME ONE THING THAT YOU CAN DO.

Make out fixed hours for going to bed and getting up, and STICK TO THEM.

However small your income may be, make up your mind to save part of it AND STICK TO THAT.

Whatever the temptation may be that attacks you, make up your mind to fight it and beat it.

You are no great exception. Life is not such a very gay and perfectly delightful thing at its best. We are all here to do something, and if the old, the poor, can stand brutal and unjust treatment from others, living and bravely fighting under it, you can stand your own weaknesses and shortcomings and live and fight under them.

We write an answer to your letter, not coldly or indifferently, but in a way that seems most desirable under the circumstances.

Just remember this: You may not keep from being a failure. You may not keep yourself free from sorrow and disappointment.

But you CAN KEEP FROM BEING A COWARD. Do that, and you will already have achieved something.

TO A YOUNG MAN IN DESPAIR

THE EDITOR OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN REQUESTS THAT THE YOUNG MAN WHOSE LETTER APPEARS IN THIS COLUMN COMMUNICATE WITH HIM IMMEDIATELY, GIVING HIS NAME AND ADDRESS. THE COMMUNICATION WILL BE HELD IN STRICTEST CONFIDENCE.

Little Editorials from the People

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE SENATE'S WORCESTER JUNKET

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Is it not about time that the people got wise to the Massachusetts Senate, the actions of which are not creditable to the state if we are to judge their conduct of Monday, when to please a street railway magnate they held a special session for the purpose of enjoying a junket to Worcester?

For the information of the uninitiated it is well that the facts be known: On Friday, to please Senator Shaw and give an excuse, the Senate agreed to meet on Monday, and instead of attending to public business the men who are elected to serve the people postponed every piece of legislation and made a hurry trip to Worcester IN THE CARS OF SENATOR SHAW. Is that the way the people expect their law makers to act? Is that what they were elected for, to do the bidding of a corporation and let the public business go by default? What would be said of the average working man who saw fit to quit his work at the most important stage? How long would he be allowed to remain in the employ of a city, town, or individual? Is the pleasure of a railway magnate greater than the duty which the senators owe to the State?

It was all right for the senators to go as the guest of Senator Dixon, for then it was only a case of fishing and a liberal supply of bait; but in the case of Senator Shaw, what kind of bait did he use and why was it necessary to go to Worcester to dispense it?

Yours for another and busier Senate.

Jamaica Plain. WINTHROP M. SCOTT.

A LULL IN THE STORM

Progress

By Wex Jones

IN days of old the highwayman bold
Rode around on a jaded nag,
And froze his blood in the rain and mud
As he waited to fatten his bag.
He'd slyly approach the lumbering coach,
As it ploughed through the sludgy shallows,
To be met, perhaps, by some pistol-proud chaps,
And dance his last jig on the gallows.

THE robber to-day has a pleasant way—
Pleasant, that is, for himself—
Of patrolling the roads and relieving of loads
Those burdened with plunder and pelf.
In a 50-horsepower, the scoundrel will scour
The country anear and afar,
And when he has cinched all the stuff to be pinched,
Disappears in his comet-like car.

IN the course of the year, no doubt, there'll appear
A pirate who'll sail-in the air,
And his airship will swoop on our goods with a whoop,
And then we'll be helpless for fair.
The robber's reliance is based upon science;
His progress is rapid and gay,
But somehow we're slow to rejoice that our dough
Is copped in a civilized way.

Why and Wherefore

Washington's War Expense

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Sir—We understand, of course, that Washington would receive no pay for his personal services to his country during the revolutionary war, but would take pay for his public services only. Can you give me the amount of the bill that Washington presented?

GEORGE PRATT.

(The bill of expenses handed by Washington to the Comptroller of the Treasury at Philadelphia in December, 1783, for upon items that he had paid to the public cause out of his private fortune, amounted to $64,315.)

Wireless Telegraphy

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Sir—Kindly state the date of the first "wireless" message of which we have any account. ANXIOUS.

(The first wireless message was transmitted across the English Channel in the Spring of 1899. November 15, the first daily newspaper ever published on an Atlantic liner was issued on the St. Paul, containing news sent from shore by wireless telegraphy.)

The "Soo" and the Suez.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I ventured the remark the other day that the traffic of the Great Lakes through the Sault St. Marie was far greater than that of the famous Suez Canal, and was disputed. Will you kindly give the business of the two canals in gross tonnage so that I may know where I stand.

HENRY PERKINS.

(The statistics for 1906 show that the gross tonnage of traffic for the Suez Canal was 19,810,713, and for the "Soo" 51,571,080.)

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

She Tells of Her Visit With an Educated Horse and the Lessons Taught by His Performances

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

ALL last year I travelled in many kingdoms, and made no effort to see a King.

But here in my own country I met the most wonderful king of his race the world has ever known—an American King!

The monarch was attired all in white, with trimmings of golden brown, and he possessed the personal peculiarity of one pale blue and one deep brown eye. His beauty was as remarkable as his intellect, and his disposition was affectionate to a somewhat embarrassing degree. But one must make allowances for the idiosyncrasies of the great.

When the King's tutor presented me, and a pretty young woman friend, who accompanied me, his royal highness proceeded to rub our cheeks with his nose and tweak our ears with his lip.

An Equine King

AT this juncture it is wise to explain, perhaps, that the King's a superb horse, now on exhibition in Boston.

Here is the story as the tutor told it to us.

He bought the horse when he was a yearling colt, suffering from distemper and a bad disposition. The young animal was called vicious, and was inclined to kick and bite those who approached him.

Yet in four years' time patience, love and firmness have transformed the horse into the marvel of the age.

Only once during all these years was he obliged to use the whip. Well chastised for a specially vicious act, and made to understand that it was unworthy of his intellect to indulge in such tempers, King became the most obedient and tractable of animals.

The tutor and the press representative placed cards bearing large figures in a rack and I asked King to bring me figure 7.

He proceeded to select the card without the slightest hesitation.

A Spelling Lesson

THEN we were told that King knew how to read and spell. I wrote the word CAT on the blackboard, and King gazed at it with a suspicion of contempt in his blue eye, if not in the brown one also.

I have the idea that his highness thinks a cat an ignoble animal. But he went to the letter rack, tossed the cards bearing those letters on the floor; then turned and came to me and pulled my ear. The act seemed to say, "That is what I think of cats."

My friend asked if he could spell HORSE.

"Try him," replied the tutor.

Then he said, "King, go and spell Horse. Hurry up, now."

King found the first three letters in the rack, and then yawned and came over and asked for a lump of sugar which he knew was waiting.

"Shame on you," said the tutor, "go back and finish up that word, and be quick about it!" So back went King, and not finding the last two letters in the rack, he hunted in another at his left and produced them.

Upon introduction, King had been told to notice that I was dressed in brown, and my friend, Mrs. F., in blue. He had studied both costumes with the eye of a connoisseur, but with masculine tact he had given no idea which he thought the prettier.

Later the tutor said, "King, take this fag to the lady in the brown dress." King laid the American banner in my lap and then tried to open my shopping bag, where he smelled sugar.

I asked him to take a blue banner to Mrs. F. He obeyed instantly.

Now, these things occurred precisely as I state them.

Just how the Smart Alecks and Doubting Thomases who are always ready to see a "trick" in anything out of the usual, will explain the actions of this horse I do not know. It is easier for me to see the possibility of awakened intellectuality in the horse than to find any "trick" in his achievements.

Many other tests were resorted to, and in not one instance did King fail.

Lesson for Human Beings

WHEN we realize that such things can be accomplished with the BRAIN OF AN ANIMAL, through patience and love, does it not give us hope that the most vicious, the most ignorant human beings on earth may be made intelligent, and amiable, and useful, if the same methods are employed?

Ought it not to make every civilized "Christian" land on earth ashamed of having ONE IGNORANT or vicious child or young person in its limits?

Instead of employing so many millions of money in building fashionable churches and maintaining so many expensive colleges and filling so many idiot asylums, reform schools and prisons, and seeing the steady increase of crime in the land, why not organize a national institution for abnormal or homeless children and employ trained teachers at good salaries to put rational methods into practice for the regeneration of the human race?

What can be done with a sick and vicious colt in four years can be done with sick or vicious children in ten.

Were the nation to establish and equip such an educational system it would soon be able to dispense with its penal institutions.
